SMASH HOSPITAL IN LONDON RAID

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—German raiders hidden in the clouds attacked London in mid-morning today after overnight bombings in which big explosives smashed an air raid shelter which housed 160 persons and three wings of a hospital housing 108.

Eight were killed in the shelter and an undisclosed number of others were injured.

The bombed hospital was described as possibly the hardest hit building in London where the raiding up to midnight was reported to be the most severe the city has undergone.

Three wings, two housing men patients and one housing women, were crumbled. Most of the patients were 80 years old or over—almost all of them permanent invalid cases.

DIG FOR VICTIMS

As rescue crews dug for victims in the debris it was feared that not a single patient escaped either death or injury. How many were dead could not be determined because many had not been accounted for long after dawn.

The first daylight alarm was sounded some time after sounds of distant firing, apparently high above the clouds, were heard in London.

In early afternoon eight German planes were seen over the Thames estuary, apparently headed for London. They were met by heavy anti-aircraft fire and turned back when British fighter planes rose to challenge them.

Raiders also were reported over the east coast. One town was dive-bombed and machine-gunned.

First reports said bombs were dropped on at least two London districts during the morning raid.

Londoners again took cover in the afternoon as single raiders streaked across the city. Those in the central part of the city could hear the muttering of distant anti-aircraft guns, and the sky was spotted with white puffs of bursting shells down the Thames.

TOWN BOMBED

The Nazis were reported particularly active over a southwest coast town, as well as in the southeast, where several towns were hit by bombs.

Ten high explosive bombs fell in one southeast district when a formation of Messerschmitts dived out of the clouds. Two houses were wrecked and six damaged before British fighters drove the raiders off.

Several persons were believed trapped in the debris of houses on London's outskirts, bombed in early

JAPS TO CLOSE BURMA ROAD WITH BOMBS, PRESS BOASTS

TOKYO, Oct. 9 (AP)—Japan will close the Burma road with bombs if Britain persists in her determination to reopen this "backdoor" route linking China with vital sources of war materials, the Tokyo press intimated today.

Declaring the recent acquisition of airplane bases in French Indo-China has given Japan a tremendous strategical advantage against China, newspapers asserted the Japanese now are ready for direct action.

Further words are unnecessary, the prominent paper Nichi Nichi said, because Japan already has explained to third powers her determination to eliminate the supply routes of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

2000-MILE ROUTE

"Japan need no longer conduct any diplomatic negotiations with Britain," said this commentary. "The effect of stationing Japanese forces in Indo-China should now be displayed."

The Burma road, built after Japan had succeeded in seizing most of China's seaboard, follows a tortuous 2000-mile route from Chungking, provisional Chinese capital, to Rangoon in British Burma, which has a common frontier with Indo-China.

Japan's acquisition of Indo-China bases, therefore, has shortened by some 350 or 400 miles the distance which her bombers would be compelled to fly in an attempt to cut the road.

DECLINES COMMENT

Some sections of the Tokyo press expressed belief the scheduled reopening of the Burma road Oct. 17 was only the prelude to more extensive British-United States assistance to China in the form of

Nazis Claim British Transports Bombed

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP)—Dive bombing hits on a convoy of troop transports, apparently carrying thousands of men from somewhere in the British Empire to the defense of Britain, were reported today by the German high command along with a fresh disclosure of surface raiding "in overseas waters."

The daily communique said that a fighting plane attacked "a strongly armed convoy with five large, fully-occupied troop transports in a deep dive and made hits on a ship of about 20,000 tons." The position of the convoy was given as northwest of Ireland and about 125 miles from the Scottish coast.

This would be on a route traveled by Canadian troops.—Editor's Note.

The bomb hits were said to have caused the transport to stop and "lay motionless."

SEA RAIDERS ACTIVE

The high command added another paragraph to the little known story of German surface raiders with the statement that "an auxiliary cruiser reports sinking of 32,000 tons of enemy merchant shipping in overseas waters as a result of its merchant war activities up to the present time."

Recent reports indicate that German surface raiding, in the World War tradition of the cruiser Emden, has reached into both the Indian ocean and close to South America, in the South Atlantic. The Emden was destroyed Nov. 9, 1914, by the Australian cruiser Sydney in a running battle off the Cocos islands in the Indian ocean.—Editor's note.

Another German plane, on reconnaissance, attacked a British merchant ship off the Scottish coast, it was said, blasted her into flames with "several bombs."

CLAIM AIRPORTS WRECKED

The high command's picture of the air siege of Britain was set off from the now customary re-

Connecticut Roars Welcome to Willkie

WITH THE WILLKIE CAVALCADE, Oct. 9—Near-riot conditions, with tens of thousands of persons jamming the public square and streets, greeted Republican Presidential Candidate Wendell L. Willkie today in Stamford, Ct., jump-off place for his New England triumphal invasion. Against a background of aerial bombs brass bands and fireworks, the roar of the cheering thousands was flung in greeting to Willkie as Governor Baldwin met the candidate at the train and started him off in an open car for the next stop, Norwalk, Ct.

Leaving her husband's side long enough to be the guest of honor at the Advertising Club luncheon in New York, Mrs. Wendell L. Willkie, wife of the G. O. P. standard bearer, is pictured in charming study enjoying a cup of tea. She has been a distinct asset to the nation-wide campaign of her husband.

International News Service Photo

In contrast to yesterday's New York, where rain drenched one and all, candidate and spectators, today was bright and sunny in lower Connecticut, an auspicious weather sign for the start of the New England swing.

STREETS JAMMED

While a wild crowd of greeters, it was a friendly one and streamers of vari-colored papers, showers of confetti, rains of rice and bits of torn telephone books and newspapers fluttered down on the cavalcade as it worked through the jammed streets, flanked by policemen.

Willkie stopped at Stamford Center for a short, peppy talk in front of Town Hall, then way was made through the crowd again for resumption of the journey to Norwalk.

In addition to Governor Baldwin, state officials of Connecticut who aided in welcoming Willkie to New England included Lieut.-Gov. James L. McConoughty, State Treas. Joseph E. Talbot, Atty.-Gen. Francis A. Pallatti, Sec. of State Sara A. Crawford and Comptroller Fred E. Zeller, all Republicans.

CROWD ROARS WELCOME

Long before the Willkie special came to a stop at Stamford rail-

RALPH H. RICE AND ATTY. FRANK VOLPE
Discuss Trial Outside Edgartown Courtroom

RICE TRIAL NEARS JURORS; DEFENSE PLEA COMPLETED

EDGARTOWN, Oct. 9—With all testimony concluded, the case of Ralph Huntington Rice, 54-year-old voice instructor charged with the murder of Mrs. Clara Smith, 74, today moved toward the jury.

After the final rebuttal witness had left the stand, Defense Atty. Frank A. Volpe immediately began his arguments in behalf of his client. Asst. Dist. Atty. Frank Smith was to follow for the Commonwealth. Judge Raoul Boudreau was to charge the jury this afternoon.

Last witness for the state was John Thomas, alias Harold Tracy, the ex-convict brought under habeas corpus writ from Barnstable county jail to testify voluntarily.

EX-CONVICT ASSAILED

Again Tracy vehemently denied that he had told Mrs. Nathan Mercer, wife of the jailer at Duke's County Jail, that on the morning when Mrs. Smith's slain and battered body was found in her room in Sumner dormitory, at the Rice School, he had awakened from a drunken stupor on the steps of the dormitory.

Tracy's testimony was corroborated by a companion, Rudolph J. Levy, who lived at the same lodging house and who testified that twice during the early morning of last June 30 he had awakened in his room and had seen Tracy, sleeping soundly, still wearing his shirt and trousers.

Assailing Tracy's testimony in his argument, Atty. Volpe told the jury that Mrs. Mercer, of all witnesses, was the one they should believe.

"This courageous woman came here voluntarily and has rendered a great service to justice," Atty. Volpe said.

REFERS TO LETTERS

The entire basis of the state's case, Volpe argued, was furnished by Rice himself when he furnished to investigating police the name of Mrs. Edna L. White of New York, Christian Science practitioner, to whom he had written two letters, one on June 30 and the other on July 1.

Mrs. White had testified she destroyed the first letter and that she accidentally placed the second letter, which she turned over to police, in the envelope dated June 30.

"Rice himself produced voluntarily the basis of the government's case," Volpe argued, "when he produced another unfinished letter he had written to Mrs. White and gave officers her address in New York. Yet no Massachusetts officers interviewed Mrs. White and she was not brought before the grand jury.

"The officers thought poor Rice was crazy because of the way he had written to Mrs. White. But there are many queer people in the world and all queer people aren't crazy and they aren't murderers.

"You will never know the torture Rice went through in jail; the constant grilling, the nerve strain, the tension. And there is no evidence whatsoever that he is a murderer."

TOWN CONDONES KIDNAP OF BODY

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 9 (AP)—Most of the friendly townsfolk of this quaint island city wish the wax-covered form of a girl nine years dead could be restored to the aged man who hoped to bring her back to life.

Among the thousands who filed past the small form on display in a funeral home there was only sympathy for the "beautiful sentiment" and "great love" of 70-year-old Karl Tanzler Van Cosel.

"He has done no harm," one wrinkled old lady said. "Why couldn't he have it back?"

Louis A. Harris, who volunteered to represent Van Cosel legally, said he believed the old man would die if the body were buried.

"I think it would be a crime to take the old man's dream away from him," said Harris. "His actions are proof that love is stronger than death."

Van Cosel, retired X-ray specialist, remained in jail after a hearing on charges of disturbing a tomb. Peace Justice Enrique Asquinaldo deferred his decision.

The white bearded German university graduate related how he kept the body in his bed for seven years after removing it from a mausoleum.

"I rebuilt the lost parts, bandaged the broken parts," said Von Cosel. "I put in sufficient absorbent material for packing to soak her in solutions to feed her and develop the tissues."

"Did you have the idea her spirit would unite with her body and commune with you?" asked Harris.

"And so it did," Van Cosel replied. "Many times she gave me technical advice."

Van Cosel fell in love with 19-year-old Elena Hoyos Mesa shortly before her death of tuberculosis.

Bridge Leap Girl Eager To Live

Life seems sweet again and all thoughts of suicide are gone for Helen Dombrowski, 18-year-old runaway Pennsylvania beauty, who waited today at City Hospital for transportation back home.

Helen, who had plunged from Chelsea st. bridge, received a four-page letter today from a New York man, a letter which told of the black road he once had traveled—and had nearly reached the end through death by his own hand.

But there came a change in his thoughts, the encouraging letter said, and he was turned back. Now he is happy because he was shown the right turn before it was too late, the letter read.

With the letter, the man sent a quantity of drawing material because he had been informed that Miss Dombrowski likes to draw.

The writer said he did not know Helen but had heard of her through the news columns and a friend.

So today it was a happy ending for the blue-eyed girl, and soon she will be on her way home with her sister, Mrs. Antoinette New, who is arranging Helen's return to Darby, Pa.

"Girls are funny, I suppose," said Helen today at the hospital. "I was happy at home with my sister, yet I thought it was all very dull.

'I decided I wanted to see something of the world."

But in Boston her money ran out and there seemed no way in which to turn—excepting the one way.

Francis Ringer, 14, of Main st., Charlestown, won't have to wait to grow up to be a fireman.

For the youngster is to be honorary fire chief of the Boston department all day Friday on orders of Fire Commr. William A. Reilly. The award was given for fire prevention work he accomplished among members of the Charlestown Boys' Club.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

Link Shakedowns To Gangster Slaying

Operations of a shake-down ring and alleged 24-hour sale of liquor in the "hot-spot" Bowdoin and Scollay sq. sections broke wide open today with the death of Salvatore Carrese, 47, gangland strong-arm ambassador.

Carrese died in accordance with gangland tradition at City Hospital, refusing to name his slayer or give the reason why two bullets were pumped into him as he walked along Hale st., West End.

Just before death came, he sneered to police:

"I shot myself."

DISTRICT POLICE HIT

Smarting under a hiding by police heads for conditions in the West End, police of the Joy st. station pressed a search for the .25 calibre gun with which Carrese was shot.

It is alleged he was killed after a series of demands on West End cafes and drug stores, the latter said to be selling after hours.

Seven suspects were held for questioning in the murder, one of them a brother of a man killed in a gang fight several years ago. In the wallet of another suspect was found two police badges.

Supt. Edward W. Fallon on taking charge of the investigation reprimanded the officers of Station 3 for permitting conditions to exist which he said led to the shooting. He told them to keep drug-stores of this section under observation and to stop the sale of liquor in these places.

ONE OF THE TOUGHEST

Police found two revolvers in a store where Carrese had an argument a short time before and knocked another man "cold." One was a .45 automatic the other a .32 caliber revolver.

Carrese was known to the police as one of the toughest men in the West End and they do not believe his killing will be allowed to pass without attempts at revenge. He had acted as bodyguard for Charles Solomon up to the time the latter was killed in a South End cafe a few years ago.

Discovery of the police badges led police to the theory the slaying might have been the result of a feud originating with a "shake-down" racket. Supt. Fallon said an exhaustive probe of the badges would be made in an attempt to ascertain how they came to be in the suspect's possession.

Timilty Leads Wild Car Chase

With Police Commissioner Timilty personally sparking the chase, three South Boston youths were captured today after a wild two-mile pursuit through Dorchester and Jamaica Plain.

Timilty, being driven to his home by Patrolman Stephen Deosh, was in one of eight radio cars that followed the trio's flight at 3:30 a. m., ending near Franklin Park, where the stolen automobile overturned.

The boys scrambled out uninjured and fled into the woods, the commissioner right behind, leading a score of men. Surrounded in the brush, the youths gave up.

6 INJURED IN TWO CROSSING CRASHES

Five train passengers and one truck driver were hurt today in two collisions with express trains of the Boston & Maine R. R.

When a Newburyport-Boston train collided with a cement-mixing truck in Wakefield the heavy vehicle was hurled on its side and the gasoline tank burst into flames starting a blaze on the train engine and destroying the truck.

Five persons were injured when they leaped from the train and 25 other passengers were shaken up. The truck driver, John Aruda, of Bonair st., Somerville, was reported uninjured.

In Everett John Powers, 24, of Scituate st., Arlington, crawled from the cab of his demolished truck after it had been carried 155 feet by a Boston-bound train with which it collided on the Second st. crosing on the Chelsea-Everett line.

Taken to the Whidden Memorial Hospital in Everett, Powers was found to be suffering from slight cuts.

Powers, scheduled to be married Saturday, was driving a truck for the C. S. Borggaard Motor Transportation Co., of Medford.

Passengers injured in the Wakefield crash were: Mildred Pease of Main st., Byfield; Hazel Wythe, Main st., Lynnfield; Edward Roberts, Fellows st., Danvers; S. Marcella, Helvin st., Wakefield, and a Mr. McNulty of Pine st., Danvers.

WAR NEAR SAYS SEN. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (INS)—In the face of a warning from Sen. Hiram Johnson (R.) of California, that the nation is on the brink of war and Congress should stay in session, the Senate today informally agreed to commence a series of three-day recesses to last until Nov. 18.

The action was taken as Speaker Rayburn announced that House leaders had abandoned plans, temporarily at least, for a recess of the lower branch, because of the determined opposition of Republicans and a group of dissident Democrats. The Senate recesses will start either late today or tomorrow.

Johnson, one of the isolationist leaders, fought against the Senate agreement on the grounds that the serious situation in the Far East requires Congress to remain continuously in session.

"This proposal leaves the situation wide open. It is practically an adjournment. I will not consent to it, but I suppose my voice has no effect."

Gasoline, Tar Peril Autoists

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9 (AP)—Gasoline fumes and tarred surfaces present a new threat to the lives of motorists, the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology was told today.

Drs. Chevalier Jackson and Chevalier L. Jackson of Philadelphia—father and son—asserted in a report before the academy there is "some evidence that gasoline fumes and tarred roads may have a part in the increase in incidence of cancer of the larynx."

Tar particles in dust can act as an irritant to produce the throat cancer, and caused death in experiments on animals, the surgeons asserted. gasoline fumes act similarly, they said.

Oil in tobacco smoke was another suspected cause of this type of cancer, described as "fatal if not treated early—otherwise 85 to 95 per cent curable."

DRAG POND FOR BODY

FALL RIVER, Oct. 9—With the disappearance of James McGraw, 33, of Charlotte st., Sunday School superintendent, still unexplained, police today announced they would drag Watuppa Pond.

Girl Clubber Hunted by State

State detectives today took charge of the investigation of the mysterious club attack on Miss Dolores Bergeron, 19, of Cambridge, and her escort, George Cavallini, 19, as they sat on a park bench near Fresh Pond two nights ago.

Police Chief Timothy F. Leahy, after a conference with Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford, announced that Lieuts. Edward Sherlock and Joseph Crescio had been assigned to the case.

Chief Lahey also announced that Chief Inspector John J. Canney of the Cambridge police, with Inspectors James O'Connor and Joseph O'Connor, would work with the state detectivese.

While the girl victim of the brutal attack, her skull crushed, was waging a fight for life in the Cambridge City Hospital, police announced that a 24-year-old Portland, Me., youth, a former boy friend of Miss Bergeron, had come under suspicion.

Love Balks Angry Father

The road of true love was cleared of an angry father today in Roxbury court when a complaint he sought against his daughter, the intended-bride-to-be, was dismissed by Judge Samuel Eisenstadt.

Immediately after the decision, Sophie Canales, 18, of Inman st., Cambridge, and Dennis Boucher, 22, of Beacon st., Back Bay, went to City Hall to obtain a waiver of the five-day marriage law.

The father of the girl, George Canale, of St. Botolph st., Back Bay, told the court he sought the complaint because he did not think his daughter was marrying the right man.

In dismissing the complaint, Judge Eisenstadt told Canale his daughter was of age and could marry the man she loved. Further, the court said, Canale was not to molest the couple in any way.

World's Largest

The Boston Fish Pier is the largest in the world. The great Boston Fish Exchange is to the American fish market what the Chicago Wheat Pit is to grain, the New York Stock Exchange to securities.

Here are 40-Fathom's plants, the last word in straight line production. Its products—fresh, quick-frozen, salted, canned—are shipped to all parts of the world. Thousands of workers share directly or indirectly in the proceeds of the catch—over seven million pounds landed monthly by the 40-Fathom fleet of nineteen big trawlers.

Modernizing the fishing industry has meant much to the port of Boston. And will mean more in the years to come.

loans. The road was closed July 17 by an agreement effective for three months.

Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, declined comment on the Burma road situation. He said, however, that a previous British agreement to suspend shipments to China via Hongkong was expected to continue, inasmuch as no time limit had accompanied that agreement.

Suma expressed surprise at the action of the United States in advising its nationals in Japan to return home as soon as possible.

Japan has no intention of advising her citizens to quit the United States, he added.

Americans Clamor To Get Out of China

SHANGHAI, Oct. 9 (INS) — As American residents of Shanghai cabled Washington for sufficient ships to enable wholesale evacuation, this famous city on the Whangpoo was turned into an armed camp tonight.

Tension mounted steadily and fears of violent incidents grew, while Shanghai authorities took all possible measures to protect the foreign population from possible molestation.

The 10th of October is both a Chinese and Japanese national holiday. Observers have long feared that hotheads might take advantage of the coincidence to touch off a riot.

All Shanghai volunteers were mobilized, police reservists called up and barbed-wire barricades erected on all except the three main thoroughfares of the city.

Motorists were stopped and searched, while police scoured famed Nanking road, probing into rooming houses and hotels for suspicious persons and possible arms caches.

The United States gunboats Isabel and Luzon, carrying supplies for missionary hospitals at Nanking and Wuhu, steamed up river during the afternoon. It was believed they would take aboard any Americans desiring to return to Shanghai, including a number of Standard Oil employes and their families.

AMERICANS TOLD TO LEAVE

Meanwhile, from Hongkong it was reported that 1600 American residents—including 950 of Chinese descent—had been advised by the consulate to leave if they have no urgent reason for remaining.

It was reported that several Japanese warships and transports had taken up positions off the famous pirate lair in Bias bay with the apparent intention of disembarking troops to occupy the strategic Canton-Kowloon Railway line.

HOSPITAL SMASHED BY GERMAN BOMBS

afternoon by a single raider which dumped six bombs.

In the main streets of one town in the metropolitan area men and women fell flat on their faces when four bombs were dropped. A few houses were wrecked and several persons injured.

Three Messerschmitts dived over Dover harbor and shot down one bag in the port's balloon barrage.

102 SECTIONS HIT

After the night attack gruesome streets, heaps of rubble that had been homes and workshops and lengthened casualty lists were reported from 102 sections of England. Thirty-eight of the areas of new bomb-wrought devastation were in London, which again bore the fullest force of the bombings that started England's third month of severe air siege.

Next to London, the hardest hit area was the tattered triangle down the Thames to the barbed-wire guarded southeast coast.

Across the choppy strait that is the No Man's Land between beleaguered Britain and the nearest Nazi camps the Royal Air Force kept steadily through the early morning hours at its task of smashing German-held coastal bases and barge fleets with the aim of keeping invasion only a threat.

Tons of high explosives and hundreds of incendiary bombs were dropped last night on the vital German seaport of Bremen, the air ministry reported today.

BREMAN BLASTED

RAF heavy bombers, the ministry said, ranged over Breman and the naval base at Wilhelmshaven, as well as inland German cities and towns and the already badly battered England channel "invasion bases."

The attack on Bremen alone lasted more than half an hour, the ministry declared. Time and time again the British unloaded showers of bombs. The air was filled with debris from explosions and fires broke out in the area.

Oil refineries at Gelsenkirchen, in the industrial Ruhr valley, the Krupp munition plant at Essen, a metal works at Hanau, a Kiel power station and the Fokker aircraft factory at Amsterdam were raided.

One pilot who took part in the Bremen attack said he saw flames roaring skyward from a building which shortly exploded, tossing broken timbers and pieces of steel high in the air.

The air ministry said the raid on Wilhelmshaven was "equally punishing" in spite of intense anti-aircraft fire. More than 15 tons of bombs were dumped on the naval base, it said.

Freight yards at Mannheim and Greenberg and several German airdromes, as well as the channel ports were raided, the ministry said. All the British planes returned safely.

Berlin had no air alarm.

NAZIS SAY TROOP CONVOY HIT

ports by an announcement that "full hits" had destroyed seven RAF airports.

Moreover, barracks and supply stations in south England were bombed, it was said, causing "strong fires at various places."

There were the usual attacks on "numerous" cities, harbors, industrial plants and rail facilities, the communique said.

Heavy anti-aircraft defense of German industries and railways nullified night RAF raids on German and German-occupied territory, the high command declared, but "many houses in several cities of north and northwest Germany were damaged by bombing and several civilians killed."

Ten to 20-fold revenge was taken on the London area last night by German bombers for the British Monday night attack on Berlin, informed German sources declared.

A "considerable load" of high explosives was reported dropped on the British capital overnight, in addition to "successful" raids on Liverpool and southern English cities.

GALE OFF BRITAIN

DOVER, England, Oct., 9 (AP)—Rough seas were running in the Strait of Dover this morning, whipped by a wild northwesterly gale. Thick sea mists made visibility poor. There were occasional showers, followed by bright intervals.

How Big is a Bank?

New England's Oldest and Largest Banking Institution

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK of BOSTON

A CONDENSED STATEMENT of CONDITION

Member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

PERHAPS you have noticed the financial statements of this bank as they appear at intervals in the newspapers. These statements measure the size of the bank in terms of its capital and surplus, loans and deposits, assets and liabilities. For many years they have indicated that this bank is the largest in New England and at present ranks among the ten largest banks in the United States. These figures are of only passing interest to the great majority of our customers. To them, the importance of the bank is determined wholly by the extent to which they use it.

BOOKSHOP PROPRIETOR

"Going into a business where competition is keen makes it necessary for me to gain every possible advantage. I find that it has helped my standing to carry my banking account at The First National. I use your branch that's just around the corner, where I also find it convenient to have a safe deposit box in which to put my important business papers and valuable documents."

FILLING STATION ATTENDANT

"You remember me, you bought my baby last year." Indeed we did remember this wide-awake young man and the Personal Loan he made to pay expenses for his wife and baby. "Now I want to finance an automatic refrigerator." We arranged this second loan. Not only is he paying back the loan regularly but he has also recently opened a savings account to which he is constantly adding.

MECHANIC

"Last summer I had an important out-of-town bill to pay," he told one of our branch managers. "I had read your advertisements about Register Checks and, having no checking account, dropped in at one of your branches. For a cost of 10 cents I purchased a Register Check and tucked it proudly in the mail. I hope to be able to open a checking account of my own next year in your bank." We believe he will.

RETIRED BUSINESS MAN

"I've been a First National depositor for a great many years both for my personal account and in the old days for my business. When I retired I turned my affairs over to the Old Colony Trust Company. Today, when I find it quite difficult to get around, a bank officer comes to see me; we discuss my business right here at home. It's a tremendous relief to know that it is in good and capable hands."

STUDENT

"Three years ago my parents sent me east to school in Boston. I opened a small checking account at The First National. When I wanted advice the manager was always ready to help me. Once, when I was suddenly taken ill, he wired my family and handled all the hospital and doctor's bills. You know, when my family came to live in Boston last year, they opened a First National account too."

SMALL MANUFACTURER

"As a specialty manufacturer, I have to keep track of markets, movement of goods and credits. I sell in this country and South America, so I depend on my bank to know what's going on both here and abroad. Your Credit Department gives me dependable information. I don't know how I'd get along without the Foreign Division. And your Buenos Aires Branch has been invaluable to us. Yes, this bank means a lot to me."

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Chief Foreign Correspondent for the Hearst Newspapers in Europe and the Far East

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—World division into two gigantic political and military power groups or camps, first forecast by me in dispatches from Europe a year ago, is now shaping up rapidly.

The Administration in Washington seems somewhat uncertain yet as to the role for which America is cast or should take in this tremendous drama unrolling before the eyes of those who can see.

FACES TWO ROLES

There seems to be uncertainty whether that role should be that of aloofness and strong constructive peace preserving defense preparations in and for this western hemisphere, or a plunge into the maelstrom of destruction in Europe.

Coming home from war torn, hungry, weary, shell-shocked Europe with its sleepless black nightmarish nights and insomnia of dread, fear and terror, I expected to find our American people the happiest on this earth, as they should be and have every reason to be. I am bitterly disappointed.

The American people seem not to know, therefore do not realize nor appreciate the boon and blessings of peace, security, undisturbed days and nights and plenty to eat.

I am told, and I cannot believe it, that they want to leave this truly paradisical condition, to take part in the hell of war which concerns them not.

Freedom and liberty, security and peace like health and happiness, are never appreciated until lost.

FEEL, DON'T THINK

A crosscut section of the chaotic state of thought of the American people shows them confused by every form of propaganda appealing to their every emotion and sentiment but never to their common sense. Full of fears and anxieties, some real some imaginary, their minds focused not on their own home and national problems but upon the problems of the peoples of far-away Europe and Asia.

Many were here in Washington where supposedly the cream of political intelligence and wisdom is concentrated, really believe that America's frontiers in the east are across the Atlantic in England and in the other direction at British Singapore, 14,000 miles apart.

Another thing which startles and shocks me since last I was home two years ago, is that if you are for America first, last, and always, you are ipso facto a "Fifth Columnist." If you are pro-British, that is if you are for America wholly unprepared going into the war which England declared, you are a 120 per cent American.

England has a good cause. But it is her cause, not ours. She is fighting manfully, yes, magnificently at home. But England's declaring war against Germany under the conditions and in the circumstances of her own unpreparedness, still remains an historic mystery

CHAMBERLAIN MYSTERY

Hitler does not ask the German people when he puts the nation into war. Mussolini does not ask the Italian people. You would not expect totalitarian dictators to ask. But when Chamberlain plunged an utterly unprepared England into war without asking the British people and Daladier put France into war without consulting the French people you begin to wonder what the difference may be between totalitarian dictators and democratic premiers.

What happened in London on Sept. 3, 1939 and in Paris Sept. 8, should be a lesson and warning to us in America.

Washington is the last remaining (as yet) "uncensored" great capital in the world.

Without a single exception all Europe, all Asia and Africa too, are under rigid military or political censorship, more often both. These censorships on cabled or wirelessed news, befog the true picture, enforce half truths, obscure clear vision. Radio broadcasts from foreign capitals usually have to pass no less than three censors, foreign office propaganda or "information" and military. It is on such news that the American public bases its opinion.

Shorn of misleading propaganda and camouflage, events that have given start, impetus and acceleration to the present historic process of the political, military, economic and social power-regrouping of the world, are the following:

BRITAIN'S GUARANTEES

Great Britain's unprecedented blanket guarantees and pledges of assistance in Europe.

Anglo-French declaration of war against Germany following latter's invasion of Poland.

Alignment of President Roosevelt of America morally and materially with England and the British Empire thereby creating an Anglo-American community of interests.

Reports from London and Washington of negotiations looking to the establishment of an American naval base at British Singapore.

Japan's entrance into alliance with the Axis powers Germany and Italy that promptly followed.

Th meeting last week of Hitler and Mussolini on the Brenner Pass to map the next stage of the war.

Japan's defiance of any American move in the Pacific against that country, expressed in newspaper interviews in Tokyo by Premier Prince Konnoye and Foreign Minister Matsuoka.

Plans in Washington to meet "Japan's challenge" or as some put it to "challenge Japan in the Far East."

Rites for Boy In Cambridge

With grief-stricken relatives and youthful friends surrounding his grave, 16-year-old Frank C. Chalk, who took his life because he wasn't old enough for the Army, went to his rest today in Cambridge cemetery.

At the request of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chalk, of Green st., Cambridge, Asst. Adjt. Gen. Porter B. Chase rescinded an order for a military escort and firing squad to attend the services.

Quiet, boyish sobs broke the stillness of the Blessed Sacrament Church, Cambridge, today as a requiem mass was conducted by the Rev. Thomas J. Tierney. More than a score of Frank's neighborhood friends were in the church and they followed on foot to the cemetery.

Viola Will Back Dever

M. Edward Viola of Medford former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, today announced that he would support Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever for Governor.

Viola, a lifelong Republican, said he was not bolting the Republican party, but said that he would support Dever because "Gov. Salton stall has failed to keep the campaign pledges he made in 1938."

During the recent primary, Viola supported the candidacy of former Dist. Atty. Robt T. Bushnell.

What's This—No Draft Horses?

Among the 50-odd hospitals to which the Boston Election Commission wrote concerning draft registration on Oct. 16 was the Ashton Lawrence Hospital in Northampton st., South End.

"Please advise the commission by return mail if you will have any male patients eligible for selective service on Oct. 16," the commission wrote. "The law requires you give this matter full and immediate co-operation."

Well, today the commission got a letter back, signed by James T. Gilligan, superintendent of the hospital.

"Gentlemen," the letter said, plaintively. "This is a hospital for sick work horses, maintained by the Boston Workhorse Relief Association."

Reynolds Nominated To Succeed M'Coole

James F. Reynolds of Quincy, register of probate for Norfolk County since 1927, was today nominated by Gov. Saltonstall to be judge of the Norfolk probate court, to succeed the late Judge Joseph R. McCoole.

Other nominations sent to the executive council by the Governor included Richard E. Walsh of Lowell, to be special justice of the Lowell district court, to succeed the late special justice Haven G. Hill.

The bench appointments were laid over for a week for confirmation, as required by law.

SELECTION PRAISED

The selection of Reynolds to fill the late Judge McCoole's place in the Dedham probate court was generally commended by state officials and political leaders.

Among the reputed aspirants for this important judgeship was Dist Atty. Edmund R. Dewing of Plymouth County, who had a long conference with Gov. Saltonstall before the latter announced his decision.

The Governor had also conferred at length with Dist. Atty. Robert Bradford of Middlesex County and Judge Frankland W. L. Miles, both being said to have acted as advisers to the Governor in filling the vacancy.

WORLD WAR VETERAN

Reynolds was born in Quincy, Sept. 7, 1895, son of John F. and Mary S. O'Connor Reynolds. He received his early education in the Quincy schools and in 1922 was graduated from the Northeastern Law School. He practiced law in Quincy for five years.

Prior to his law practice he was for 12 years employed as a shoe cutter in a Braintree factory. During the World War he served as an infantry sergeant and is a member of Cyril P. Morrissette Post, American Legion, in Quincy. Knights of Columbus and M. C. O. F.

He was appointed to fill a vacancy as register of Norfolk County by the late Judge McCoole in 1927.

OTHER NOMINATIONS

His wife was the former Miss Gertrude A. Mahan of Randolph. They have four children; Mary, 14; James, 12; John, 9, and Paul, 5. They live at 10 Dayton st., Quincy.

Other nominations made by the Governor today were, David A. O'Malley of Salem, reappointed to the State Board of Registration in Chiropody; Frank S. Waterman of Brookline, renominated to the State Board of Embalmers and Funeral Directors; Sidney C. Dalrymple of Brookline to be associate medical examiner of Norfolk County, in the 8th District, and Frank H. Snow of Orleans as justice of the peace.

WILLKIE CHEERED BY CONNECTICUT THRONG

road station, thousands of townspeople and countless others from surrounding area were there.

Even before Willkie and his wife appeared, Willkie enthusiasm, pent up ever since the six-foot Hoosier was nominated, was let loose.

"We want Willkie!" the crowd roared. "We want Willkie!"

The entire district, including Stamford, Greenwich, New Canaan, Darien, Norwalk and Bridgeport, without [illegible] miles of the city's [illegible] was gaily [illegible] for the visit.

[illegible] New England hotbed of [illegible] was [illegible] prepared [illegible] which [illegible] a [illegible] visit.

CAVALCADE TOURS

[illegible] Republican [illegible] Willkie was scheduled to [illegible] largest motorcade ever to accompany a Presidential candidate.

From now through Saturday the Willkie invasion is scheduled to roll unceasingly from daylight until dark through the populous centers of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Willkie will greet millions and deliver scores of speeches, stressing "No Third Term" and "No Secret War Commitments" in the fight which G. O. P. leaders at last feel is beginning to swing their way.

Today's itinerary will carry Willkie into every large center of Connecticut, with a major speech at New Haven at dark.

Norwalk, Bridgeport, Derby, Naugatuck, Bristol, Hartford, Waterbury, New Britain, Meriden and New Haven all will hear the nominee.

TOURS UP COAST

Tomorrow morning first thing he will speak in New London and speed on into Rhode Island.

Another Willkie will join the Republican forces at Providence. He's Philip Willkie, the candidate's son, Harvard graduate student, who declared his father's campaign now seemed "to be getting results."

Willkie's first address in Rhode Island will come tomorrow morning at Westerly.

There Willkie will be greeted by hundreds of leading Republicans of the State and at East Greenwich the party will leave the special. While the train proceeds to Providence to await his coming, Willkie will participate in an auto cavalcade halting to speak at River Point, Woonsocket, Attleboro and Providence, before his speech at Narragansett Park in Pawtucket.

The stop at Attleboro, over the Massachusetts line, will be made to visit with the mother of "Joe" Martin, the Bay State's congressman head of the G. O. P. National Committee.

TWO DAYS IN MASS.

Massachusetts, which is scheduled as a battleground for ballots, will be invaded in determined fashion in a tour lasting Friday and Saturday. At least 2,000,000 are expected to greet Willkie in this Commonwealth.

Leaving Providence on his special train, he will ride to Fall River, where his party and the press party accompanying his tour will leave the train to board autos for an auto cavalcade tour to Boston.

The party will halt in Taunton, Brockton and Mattapan sq. before being joined by the Boston reception committees. Willkie's day will include appearances at rallies on Cambridge Common and at the General Electric plant, Lynn, with return through East Boston and the tunnel for a parade through downtown Boston to his hotel for dinner.

Climaxing the entire four-day trip will be his main New England speech to be delivered at a rally at National League Field.

On Saturday he will go by train to Haverhill, where once more he will join an auto cavalcade which will visit Haverhill, Lawrence and Lowell, where he again picks up his train to speed to rallies in Worcester, Springfield and Pittsfield.

There was no denying that confidence oozed from the Willkie entourage today. Their candidate had bearded Democracy in its greatest stronghold—New York—and came off with the plaudits of the East Side, West Side and the whole damn town.

Into the home Bronx district of Ed Flynn, President Roosevelt's campaign manager, the man who would succeed him carried his fight.

Flynn was flayed as "one of the most vicious bosses alive."

"Here is an Administration pretending to be pure, but under the leadership of Ed Flynn trying to take this election by trickery and fraud," Willkie charged.

F.D. SIGNS PROFITS TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Broad tax legislation, using an excess profits levy as a barrier against profiteering on military contracts and intended at the same time to encourage defense enterprises, has been signed into law by President Roosevelt.

The new law, signed at 11 p m. last night, carries an excess profits tax of from 25 to 50 per cent and raises the corporation income tax from 20.9 to 24 per cent, the new rates being applicable on 1940 income and thereafter.

The White House announced the signing today.

As a means of activating the defense program, the law permits manufacturers and others to amortize, or to deduct from their taxable income, their entire costs of facilities completed for defense purposes after June 10, 1940. The deductions would be made at the rate of 20 per cent a year for five years.

It also suspends, during such period as the excess profits tax is levied, present 8 and 7 per cent limits on profits from warships and military aircraft.

Mother Turns Boy Over to Police

Shamefaced and penitent, a 15-year-old Allston boy was escorted today into Brighton station and admited that he is the boy who escaped last night when police investigated a call that burglars were in an Allston tire and accessories shop.

Police had capturned another youth, 14, and taken him to the station.

Troubled by his conscience, the older boy finally confided in his mother today. She immediately took him to the station.

In Brighton court both youths were held for juvenile session on Friday.

ALIEN BUREAUS TO CLOSE

Alien registration units at the main postoffice, and at Quincy, Chelsea, Medford, Cambridge and Somerville, will be closed all day Saturday, Columbus Day, Postmaster Peter F. Tague said today.

VETS OFFER DRAFT AID

While Gov. Saltonstall prepared to disclose the membership of the 173 selective service boards today, World War veterans volunteered their services for aiding draft registration, which starts Oct. 16.

With the return of Adjt.-Gen. Edgar C. Erickson, state selective service director, from Washington, the chief executive said he would name the Bay States who will have the power to select men from 21 to 36 for possible military service during the next five years.

The Governor also disclosed that the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars have offered their post headquarters in every city and town and the services of their thousands of members.

U.S. War in 15 Days? Who Knows---Knox

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—At a press conference filled with questions about the tense Far Eastern situation, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today that the United States fleet, now on duty in the Pacific, would be brought up to full strength immediately by the addition of about 4200 men.

The additions, the navy department chief reported, will raise crews of the warships from 85 per cent to 100 per cent of their theoretical strength.

Announcing the step as one of several measures to reinforce naval strength without delay, Knox said also that the navy was "pressing" for the acquisition of 31 additional auxiliary ships for the fleet's train.

WAR? NO ONE KNOWS

He was asked whether he concurred in a prediction that the administration feared war with Japan in 15 days and promptly replied "No."

"I don't think anybody knows," he added.

He said he expected to confer again this week with Admiral James O. Richardson, fleet commander in chief, who came here from Hawaii for talks on the troubled Far East with President Roosevelt and Knox, both of whom he saw initially yesterday.

In response to another question, the secretary said no decision had been made to change the status of approximately 1200 marines comprising American defense forces in the Shanghai International Settlement.

And he replied "no comment" when told that Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, former commander of the Asiatic fleet, had said in a speech last night that "we may be better prepared for a showdown with Japan now, while she is bogged down in China, than we will be six years from now" when the fleet will have been expanded to a two-ocean navy.

4200 MORE MEN

The 4200 recruits for the fleet will be assembled at Pacific coast ports, Knox said, and transported to Hawaii aboard a fleet detachment which will return to the islands soon after being overhauled.

Of the auxiliaries, Knox noted that Congress had authorized the acquisition of 53 for the fleet trains and that 22 have been taken over from the maritime commission and private owners. In addition, the navy has acquired large numbers of trawlers and other relatively small craft for coastal defense.

Kenmore Phones Silent 20 Minutes

Ickes Cancels Stumping Tour

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Secretary Ickes said today that a miscalculation on radio time plus a new show of Roosevelt strength in political polls caused him to cancel his proposed stumping tour of the Pacific northwest.

He was to have spoken at Portland, Denver and Seattle. While en route last Saturday night he said, he learned that no major address at Portland, in which he intended to challenge Wendell L. Willkie's stand on public power, could not be broadcast.

BLUE DELPHINIUM, silvery stars and crimson gladiolas form the patriotic decorations for the large debut ball in honor of Helen Shurtleff Francis at The Country Club this evening.

The ushers are wearing pom pom boutonnieres of the national colors and each debutante guest at the dinner will find a favor at her place . . .

Mrs. Powers and Helen are receiving in front of a flower screen . . . the debutante in a billowy white tulle gown appliqued with silver and enhanced by an old fashioned bouquet of blue and scarlet flowers encircled by a ribbon ruffle . . . Mrs. Powers' gown of black net has a gold sequin bodice and she is wearing a wristlet of white orchids . . .

Crimson cellophane bows decorate the pillars and windows of the ballroom and colorful clusters of balloons will lend additional sparkle to the setting . . .

Yankee Swaps to Aid Children's Hospital

Bartering in the real old-fashioned Yankee manner, the way our forefathers traded with the Indians, will be the feature of a unique charity affair being planned by society women to raise money for the Children's Hospital . . .

Yes, you guessed it, the affair is to be called a Yankee Trading Post and will be held Oct. 29 and 30 at 575 Boylston st. The idea is simple . . . you just exchange something you don't want for something you do . . . Take any articles—old furniture, books, curtains, clothing, etc. —in to the sale . . . mark them with a price you think reasonable, and when they are sold at the Trading Post you will receive half the fee and the hospital the other half . . .

There was much enthusiastic discussion of plans for the sale at a committee meeting at the hospital yesterday . . . Mrs. William Brace Pratt presided and among the many workers were Mrs. Samuel Eliot and her daughter, Nancy . . . Mrs. George Peabody Gardner, Jr., Patty Spencer, Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge, Mrs. John Hallowell, Mrs. John Lawrence, Mrs. Charles Devens, Mrs. Bartlett Harwood and her daughter, Mrs. Eliot Codman . . . Mrs. Harwood looked like a fashion plate in a black fall suit with a fuchsia peplum jacket and black hat . . . Even her purse carried out the black and fuchsia color scheme . . . it was a long roll of black moire piped with fuchsia . . .

For Autumn Appetites

By MARTHA LEE

OCTOBER'S bright blue weather lures the family out of doors for strenuous activities and sends them back again hungry as bears. Your're on the spot unless you have plenty of everything prepared for them. They're bound to ask for second and even third helpings.

The huge appetites are a sign that huge amounts of energy are being used up in these fall activities and so it is important to provide in the diet a large proportion of energy foods that fill them up and stay by them. These are breads and other cereal foods, macaroni and spaghetti and certain of the vegetables such as potatoes and dried beans.

Various other foods furnish energy in smaller amounts, of course, and they must not be overlooked.

Avoid the possibility of monotony by serving a variety of hot breads and yeast breads and be sure to give all the other high energy foods prepared in many different ways a turn in your meal plans

PEANUT CORN MEAL MUFFINS

½ cup corn meal
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. sugar
¼ cup peanut butter
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup milk

Sift dry ingredients together twice; work in peanut butter in as small pieces as possible. Combine well beaten egg and milk. Make a depression in flour mixture, then pour in liquid, mixing only enough to dampen flour. Pour into well greased muffin pans, then top with small pieces of raw bacon. Bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

There will be occasions when you will want to take time out for fall activities of your own. Then it is that some of your high energy meals must be hurry-up meals as well. To aid you, there are cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese, cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese and that old New England favorite, oven-baked beans in four different styles. You will find these foods make other more expensive items, such as meats, go farther and save you money as in the following recipes:

SPAGHETTI AND SIZZLED BEEF

1-3 cup (1 small) finely chopped onion
1-3 cup (1 small) finely chopped green pepper
3 tbsp. butter
¼ cup (2½ oz) finely shredded dried beef
1 large (24 oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce
Dash of pepper

Cook the onion and green pepper in the butter until tender. Add dried beef, browning slightly; add spaghetti and pepper. Cook until spaghetti is heated through. Serve very hot on platter. Garnish with sprigs of crisp parsley and ripe mission olives. Makes 4 servings.

MACARONI CASSEROLE WITH BROCCOLI

1 bunch broccoli
1 medium (17-oz) can cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese
1-3 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup grated sharp cheese

Cook and season the broccoli. Place the macaroni in an oblong casserole. Top with broccoli pieces, arranging in interesting design by placing the stem ends in one direction, then opposite, in center of macaroni. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Sprinkle the cheese in center over broccoli. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 30 minutes. Makes 3 servings

Dressmaker Detail in Coat

A COAT with the dressmaker look is very unusual . . . it has a nice sort of formality, because of the softly sculptured lines, which are achieved only because a new fabric has been created just for such use! It's a "Velperla" which is thick, warm, 100% virgin wool and has an unusually pliable, supple texture. The color is also news, too; it's a "grain-gold," the color of autumn-tinted birch leaves. —ANNICE BRINK.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

I USED to count on growing up looked forward to it with an eager wonder and delight.

Some day, I told myself, when I'm grown up, I'll be all over these mixed-up feelings that make life so hard for kids. Who was it I wondered, who'd first said that being young was the happiest time in your life? It wasn't . . . it wasn't! It was a dreadful, dizzy, hurty time! You never knew what to do and you always did it wrong, and everyone blamed you.

But when I grew up it would all be different! I knew, for I had met some perfectly wonderful grown ups and they were that way, so sure of themselves, so untroubled.

I'd be like them. I'd never again be afraid or unsure. Everything would be sharp and clear, then; not fuzzy and wobbly the way it was now. I'd know what I wanted and I'd do it, without this funny feeling in the pit of my stomach.

And some day, when I'd grown up, I'd understand people. They wouldn't be able to kid me any more . . . or frighten me . . . or make me feel small and cheap. I'd look at them through my cold blue eyes and know exactly what they were up to.

I'd never again make a fool of myself, when I was grown up. I wouldn't fly into tantrums—or start crying——or get all trembling inside. I'd always be dignified 'n' graceful—and, maybe, a little remote. There'd be something mysterious about me . . . something that would make all people realize that I couldn't be monkeyed with.

YES, it was going to be wonderful, when I'd grown up. For something happened to you when you grew up. Happened almost overnight. You didn't expect it or quite understand it—but it happened just the same. All of a sudden you changed. You were entirely different. You weren't all tangled up any more. You were certain. And everything came easy. You knew what to say . . . when to laugh . . . and what to do with your hands. Oh, it was going to be wonderful, to be grown up.

So I once thought. So you once thought, rankling over your small confusions . . . looking with eager, wistful eyes into the future . . . counting the days, the months, the years, until your deliverance came.

And then, almost before we knew it, we were grown up—you and I. There was the calendar, with the important days unfolding before you. There were the clothes, the chiffon "formal," proclaiming your maturity. But where—oh, where!—was this marvelous ease and certainty which was to come with that grown up status?

WHERE WERE the nice neat tags on everything which would tell you what was right and what was wrong.

Where was that mysterious warming tide of strength and surety which would tell you what to do and when to do it?

Where was the sudden sense of certainty, which would banish all your youthful gawkiness and self-consciousness?

The answer is, they weren't anywhere. And they never will be! For it was all just childish "wishful thinking," that dream of grown up wonder. We thought we would be like that when we were grown up, because we so wanted to be. But we weren't like that! And the reason was — NOBODY EVER IS!

Nobody ever really grows up! Nobody is ever really free from fear or awkwardness or loneliness. We never learn "what to do with our hands" though we live to be a hundred years. We never stop making childish blunders and stupid mistakes.

Yet maybe there's Someone, somewhere, who understands and loves a child, even though it blunders.

And who'll forgive us and give us another start because we dared to dream!

Dykstra Weighs Offer of Draft Head Post

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) - Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, said today President Roosevelt had discussed the post of draft administrator with him but that he would have to do "some considering" before saying whether he would accept.

Dykstra made the statement after calling upon the President in company with Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Asked whether he would accept the draft directorship, the university head said he could not answer that now—that he would have to give the matter "some consideration."

To a question as to whether the post had been offered to him, he said Mr. Roosevelt had discussed the matter with him.

Dykstra has been mentioned repeatedly here as a likely choice of Mr. Roosevelt for the position of director of selective service.

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—The postmaster general announced today that some of the letters and parcels for Britain posted in the United States the last week in August had been lost "through enemy action." ## Nazi Troops Enter Rumania Via Danube

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP)—Authorized sources declared today that German troops are heading down the Danube to serve as a model army and instructors in Rumania, but said they could not confirm the Rumanian reports that the first contingents already have reached the border.

It was said that whatever troops go—or have gone—are proceeding by way of the Danube which, as an international river, would not involve the problem of crossing any neutral frontiers.

Woman and Pet Monkey Forced To Leave Theater

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 9 (AP)—A well-dressed woman was escorted from a theater here last night, because her pet monkey was breaking up the movie.

Downstairs patrons were annoyed by a constant squeaking. An usher found a baby monkey cuddled in a basket in the arms of a middle-aged woman, who was talking softly to her pet.

And in leaving, the woman, the money for her ticket refunded, could be heard murmuring softly:

"Won't even let me see the show—you're a bad, bad boy tonight."

A STATEMENT BY THE

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO.

IN RELATION TO

NATIONAL DEFENSE

National Defense has become a matter of immediate personal concern to you and to every American citizen. Quick, adequate, and dependable communication is indispensable to the Defense Program. Therefore it is important that you know just how well prepared New England is in the matter of telephone communication. That is the reason for this statement.

This Company is prepared now to do its part in supporting all the units of our national defense: the Army, the Navy, and all other government agencies, as well as those industries of New England which are being called upon to furnish supplies and other important services for the Defense Program.

The Company has a force of 20,700 carefully trained men and women, capable of installing, operating, and maintaining telephone plant efficiently under all conditions. The average length of service of these employees is eighteen years; they have met emergencies of the most trying sort; each recognizes his or her responsibility toward those who depend on us for telephone service. Their record for loyal, intelligent, tireless public service is well known to the people of New England.

In personnel, research, materials, equipment, and motorized units for swift mobilization of its construction and repair facilities this Company stands ready to meet any defense demands that may be made on it. It has a staunch, well-protected plant. It has at its disposal, in the development and manufacture of equipment, the facilities of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company. The Company's sound and conservative financial policy, backed by the resources of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, places it in a position to meet any sudden and heavy demands for emergency expansion and operation.

For many months, plans have been perfected and equipment and materials earmarked in anticipation of large and rapid expansion of the communications load.

For these reasons, the Company is able to say that it is prepared now to carry its full share of the burdens of Defense; that it is prepared now to meet whatever demands the Defense Program may place on it.

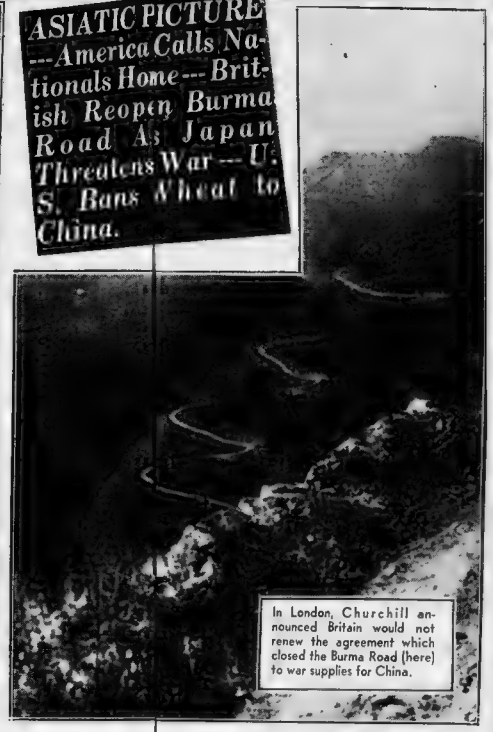
---America Calls Nationals Home--- British Reopen Burma Road As Japan Threatens War--- U. S. Bans Wheat to China.



In London, Churchill announced Britain would not renew the agreement which closed the Burma Road (here) to war supplies for China.

Road to War—As Japan threatens the United States with war, and is reported to have landed troops on British-leased Liu-Kung Island (5), Prime Minister Churchill announces the re-opening of the Burma Road (1), which supplies warring China, while angry Japanese bomb Canton and Hong Kong and the road (2) west . . . from bases in French Indo-China (3). Meanwhile, authorities push evacuation of Americans from Shanghai (4).

THE American Government should make immediate and all necessary arrangements for the return to this country of Americans who have remained in Europe in spite of the war.

Many Americans are undoubtedly still in Europe simply because they do not have the financial means to return home, or are unable to obtain transportation.

FOREIGN REFUGEES REACH AMERICA SAFELY

Why Not Enable Stranded AMERICANS to Return Home?

Since the United States is providing safe harbor for many foreigners, it should certainly do so for its own citizens; and since it is making beneficent arrangements for the transportation here and refuge here of unfortunate and in some cases destitute foreign refugees, it should not be less beneficent or considerate in arranging for the repatriation of Americans who are at least as unfortunate and perhaps as destitute as foreigners.

Apart from those Americans who have been stranded in Europe by the war and have not been able to return home, considerable numbers have remained for other reasons—mostly for reasons which do not improve the prospect for permanent American neutrality.

Americans remaining in European countries at such a time as this, willfully or otherwise, do so at great risk in the belligerent areas—and all European areas seem likely to become belligerent.

They cannot carry on normal pursuits. In the effort to do so they are likely to provoke controversial incidents, even though innocently, and thus imperil the neutral status of the United States.

Moreover, some Americans abroad may not act neutrally or believe in neutrality as earnestly and sincerely as most Americans at home still do, and are likely to be meddlers and trouble-makers and to precipitate controversies which the American people as a whole would like to and would do well to avoid.

Stranded Americans are entitled to a speedy and safe return home. Meddlesome and trouble-making Americans should be BROUGHT home.

The peace we enjoy in the United States should not be withheld from any Americans in distress. Nor should it be put in jeopardy by either foolhardy or meddling Americans.

Americans belong AT HOME in these perilous times. Let us bring them home and keep them home.

---

REGISTER NOW! Do not put off this American duty until the last minute. And do not neglect it entirely.

This sensible and patriotic advice applies to hundreds of Massachusetts citizens who must place their names on the voting lists of the respective towns and cities if they wish to cast ballots a month hence.

In Boston and many other communities, registration will continue daily through October 16, with the exception of Sunday and holidays.

But no one should wait until the final hour, because October 16 is also the date set for the nationwide registration of men of Conscription age.

Taking the names of thousands of men between the ages of 21 and 36 is a big job in itself. Officials ought not to be faced with the added task of tabulating the records of would-be voters.

Seldom, if ever, in the history of this Commonwealth and nation has there been a more significant election than next November's.

Important questions closely affecting the lives of every American will be considered and answered by the electorate as the country stands on the brink of war.

The answers should be made by EVERY CITIZEN qualified to cast a ballot.

This is certainly not the time to sit at home and leave the job of voting to the other fellow.

MANY READERS bring us their problems. This is most flattering. An effort is always made to aid in the solution. At times we are baffled as with the following problem from a young matron of Long Beach, Cal.: "Last night in his sleep my husband called out for Marjorie. My name is not Marjorie. What shall I do?" Well, ma'am, perhaps you should maintain silence and wait for another night when your husband might in his sleep become more loquacious and therefore more specific. In the meanwhile, check on all known Marjories. It may be your husband, when he was a little boy, had a cat named Marjorie. Don't let suspicion rear its ugly head too soon. I know a husband who cried out in his sleep for "Alice." When questioned by his wife whose name was Grace, he said he dreamed he had bet a hundred dollars on a filly named Alice W. running at Santa Anita. His wife, he told me, exclaimed: "Oh, yeah!" But he stuck to his story. All of which reminds us of that song of the yesteryear "If You Talk in Your Sleep, Don't Mention My Name."

A BRUNETTE of Manhattan who confesses she has gone red-haired says: "Tell that washed out Detroit Blonde who spoke so disparagingly of red hair that men have always admired the red heads. From Nell Gwynne to Lily Langtry, all the women who have made history and swayed kings have had red hair. Wallis Warfield was wise enough to have red hair at her debut and she knows what men like. Then take the Hollywood red heads, Myrna Loy, Janet Gaynor, Clara Bow, Jeanette MacDonald, Billie Dove and dozens of others. Blonde men are handsome, but natural blonde women generally have flat noses, enormous mouths and colorless, expressionless light blue eyes."

IN WEST VIRGINIA there is also a town named Paw-Paw. Every State has had a popular sing written about it. Why not now start on the towns? Why not on Paw-Paw? For instance, "Paw-Paw, Here I Come," "Take Me Back to Old Paw-Paw," "A Cup of Coffee, Paw-Paw and You" or "How My Paw-Paw Papa Can Love" . . . Feminine client says she first met her husband when he stepped on her feet at dancing school. Where did you meet your boy friend, ma'am? After I first met my girl friend, somebody asked her: "What did you think of him?" and she said: "He's too fresh. Much too fresh" . . . Margie Hart, dancer known as "The Poor Man's Gypsy Rose Lee," sent 500 autographed photographs of herself to Major General Haskell of the New York National Guard asking they be given to men under his command. Said Miss Hart late yesterday: "I hope the General didn't give any of my pictures to married men. A husband should have only his wife's photo while he is serving his year of military training."

MY DAY

HYDE PARK, Oct. 9—I left Hyde Park with my husband at noon for Watervliet, New York. He inspected the old arsenal which I passed so many times when we lived in Albany, but never before dared to enter. It always seemed to me a quiet place in those days, but now it is certainly a busy spot, running three shifts and employing some 2700 men and constantly increasing in production.

From there we went to the Saratoga battlefield. The whole staff working with Mr. Al Kresse was on hand and we drove to the three sites being considered for the administration building. Governor Lehman was with us during the entire trip and he seemed to share the President's interest in maps of all kinds.

They sat in the car at the top of the hill. The entire staff working on the development of Saratoga battlefield park was with them and discussed all that was some day to be done in the fields around to make this battlefield of historic interest to the public.

---

FROM THERE we went to the Saratoga baths with General Hines of the Veterans' Administration. He is interested in new facilities for cardiac patients and hopes to be able to use the wonderful development at Saratoga Springs during the months when it is scarcely used at all.

On the drive through Troy and Cohoes and several smaller towns, my husband had the opportunity of seeing some of his old friends.

Having Governor Lehman with us made the official part of the trip very pleasant. Since the Governor was attending a Parent-Teachers' dinner, we parted at Loudonville and went to Mr. Earl Miller's house there for a purely social two hours.

A FEW FRIENDS, who had been asked to meet the President, had been waiting for some time. I think they were forgiving and understood that on trips of this kind there are always more things to see than are anticipated. My husband left Albany for Washington about 9 and Miss Thompson and I returned to Hyde Park.

On the train, I was interested in reading an article by Morris Markey in an October magazine. It is called: "Let Freedom Ring."

I am entirely in agreement with his idea that the way for us to help Europe is to help Europe's children and perhaps he is right that, in the future, it would be well for many of us to adopt, instead of taking in temporarily, these children from European countries.

However, I would qualify his plan a little and say that we must make the effort to take in children who have lost their parents and who, therefore, do not have to be torn away from them when we take them into our homes and offer to make them future American citizens.

SON JIM TO SERVE WITH MARINES

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT: Your brother, Jimmy, will report for service with the Marine Corps Oct. 16. Jimmy, who holds a commission in the reserves, will work there for nine months . . . JOE MARTIN, JR.: Although you jumped the Democratic machine by hiring Madison Square Garden for the evening when Tammany usually holds its wind-up rally, the Democratic National Committee has secured an advantageous spot. They have reserved two important hours of radio time for the evening before Election Day . . . JOSEPH P. KENNEDY: Last week's reports stated that when you retire from your post in London, William C. Bullitt will succeed you. But it won't be Bullitt. If you return here, Tony Biddle, the ex-Ambassador to Poland, is more likely to get the job.

ZASU PITTS

LORD LOTHIAN: Monty Banks, husband of the famed British star, Gracie Fields, expects to return to his native Italy within the next few days. When he comes back here, it will be for a six months' stay—during which he and Miss Fields expect to do a show . . . MICKEY ROONEY: Agnes Christine Johnson, who wrote so many of your Andy Hardy stories, is preparing Shirley Temple's first picture for MGM. Under Shirley's contract, her mother will receive $250 a week extra—but unlike her contract with Zanuck, will have no control over stories, directors, etc. . . . DOROTHY THOMPSON: Don't be surprised if Mayor LaGuardia and Senator Norris invite you—you, one of Willkie's original sponsors—to head the women's division of their Roosevelt committee.

JOHN BARRYMORE: Because of the success you and Edward Everett Horton had in road touring, Zasu Pitts will tour the country until the Fall of 1941 in a murder mystery about spinster sisters who inherit a N. Y. detective agency . . . SENATOR McNARY: One of America's foremost utility men soon will announce his support of F. D. R. . . . SUMNER WELLES: Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Ambassador to Moscow, is optimistic. That's why he has sent for his wife, Lady Isabell Cripps, and two of their daughters. They will arrive in Moscow this week for a six months' stay . . . JACK WHITE: One of the Minsky Burlesque family will open a cafe to rival yours on W. 52nd St. shortly . . . AMBASSADOR HENRI-HAYE: A member of the staff of your French Embassy insists that the French planes which bombed Gibraltar, in reprisal for the attack on Dakar, were manned by Nazi aviators.

CHARLES BOYER: Henri Diamant-Berger, the noted French producer, left Paris with 300,000 francs and two cars. He had to bribe his way across three borders, and finally managed to secure passage on a Greek boat. And so he arrived in Hollywood with less than $500 of his original fortune. He was so delighted at being in this country that he contributed most of his remaining $500 to the American Red Cross . . . JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER: When the ILGWU's stirring labor pageant first was performed at Madison Square Garden during the union's convention, it included scenes referring to the Colorado strikes against the Rockefellers in 1916. On Saturday, when that same pageant was repeated at the Garden, those strike scenes were eliminated—because of your family's admirable work for the Greater N. Y. Fund, beneficiary of this repeat performance. The Guggenheim strike instead was substituted . . . DARRYL ZANUCK: Warner's is preparing a new movie, "Bad Men of Missouri," which will present all the bad bad men in one picture—the James Bros., The Younger Bros., Billy Anderson, Capt. Tough and other killers . . . ELEANOR ROOSEVELT: Three plane loads of Hollywood stars will fly to New York to picnic with you at Hyde Park.

ED WYNN: Eddie Cantor has revised his plans to appear on Broadway in "Not Tonight, Josephine" because he feels that with you and Jolson having made such successful returns to Broadway one more veteran perhaps would be too much. Cantor plans instead first to tour with the show all around the country, and then bringing it to N. Y. next season.

ERASURE OF "THE STUDENT" by pistols of mixed calibre was last night's topic along the Radio that and "Panama Hattie" . . . A mild gent whose conduct was in keeping with his scholarly appearance on most occasions, "The Student" Salvatore Catesi was extremely whimsical at times . . . Nightclub operators humored the late Mr. Catesi outrageously . . . Like most of the "boys," he tried to assume his best behavior on his nights out

SOMETIMES A FEROCIOUS MOOD got the better of his good intentions . . . It was no fun to be in the immediate vicinity then . . . We recall one early morning when "The Student" accented an argument with a gesture—and a shooting-iron suddenly dropped out of somebody's sleeve and clattered down on the table.

THE OMNIPRESENT comedy twins of "Panama Hattie," Pat Harrington and Frankie Hyers, made their third "guest star" appearance in as many nights, this time at the Mayfair . . . They are very funny in the boisterous manner of their Alma Mater, Jack White's Club 18 . . . It is the long hours and training Pat and Frank enjoyed under the Madcap Mr. White that is standing them in good stead these days . . . A long rehearsal, a Boston premiere, the Mayfair visit and a late party thrown by the grateful B. G. "Buddy" De Sylva for his excellent cast in "Panama Hattie" was their schedule yesterday.

THE MAYFAIR has just booked Mitzi Green for a two weeks' engagement beginning two weeks from tonight . . . (Terry Lawlor opens there tonight) . . . Manager Mickey Redstone is trying to hire Milton Berle, George Jessel, Harry Richman, Sophie Tucker and Joe E. Lewis all separately, of course . . . Bill Robinson proved his box-office draft with little delay . . . The Southland was sold out at the supper show, and rainy Tuesdays are seldom productive of capacity in a nightclub.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Lovely Leslie Ricke, the society kid who sang songs for pin-money a few years back, has switched to modeling, and loves it . . . Leslie attended the Cushman Club's fashion show at the Ritz and enjoyed the work of a group of amateur models of the sterner sex . . . Those were: Ranny Weeks, Vaughn Monroe and Bob Harris, all o. the music world . . .

MR. MONROE, INCIDENTALLY, is nothing against the shoulder of success at last . . . Those radio "shots" from Seiler's Ten Acres have pitched Vaughn his voice and his band (as the radio announcers would call them) into the midst of the contention for the big, big time . . . It is too bad that Ranny can't get a few coast-to-coast periods out of Boston . . . The hits of the Cushman Club show were the five-year-old twin daughters of the Frank Sawyers . . . Mr. Sawyer, who is known to his familiars as "Deacon," is the taxicab tycoon . . . The twins are incredibly lovely . . .

ANN CORIO'S BOOK entitled: "Men, Gentlemen and—Others," is really an autobiography, and is not being co-authored by George Frasier, the Harvard grad who rates a pre-eminent position as a critic of American folk-music, swing and sweet . . . In a modest note Mr. Frasier disclaims active collaboration . . . "I'm really only helping Ann in assembling her autobiography not actually writing the stuff," George writes . . . "I was quite amazed to find that many of Ann's notes need absolutely no revision.

THEY'RE FRESH, unstudied, unpretentious and extremely readable . . . My agent, Jacques Chambrun wrote me this morning that the American Weekly wishes to buy 'Men, Gentlemen and—Others' for serialization" . . . Meantime, Miss Corio is withstanding bursts of publicity from a rival burleycue house, and business at the Old Howard is—as usual with a Corio week—of the sellout sort.

BOYER SIGNS NEW CONTRACT

By Louella O. Parsons

Charles Boyer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9—Letters galore about Charles Boyer ask why he hasn't made a picture for so long. I printed a few days ago that he will have the male lead in "Hold Back the Dawn" at Para but that isn't until January. Today Charles put his name on a contract to play opposite Margaret Sullavan in "Back Street" before he goes to Paramount. It will be one of Universal's top pictures and Bruce Manning, a newcomer will produce.

Manning and Felix Jackson will also do the writing job. This is the team that wrote "Spring Parade" for Joe Pasternak, so you know they're good. To the fan and many others who wrote and asked if Charles Boyer had dropped off the face of the earth or has retired from the movies, this Boyer activity will bring happiness.

ALL EMPLOYES of conscription age at Warners received the reassuring news from Harry Warner today that any men who are drafted or are members of the National Guard, will be given back their jobs at the expiration of military service. In addition all employes who have been with the company over a year will receive two weeks salary when reporting for duty.

Each employe's financial circumstances will also be considered and a lump sum will be given to dependents. Nicholas Schenck of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer personally wrote to a young employe on the lot assuring him that his job would be held for him while he was serving his country. Naturally the same applies to every M-G-M worker of draft age.

Twentieth Century-Fox held a board of directors meeting and it was unanimously voted that every employe who was conscripted would be given his job back. Moe Siegel, head of Republic Studios, says Herbert Yates has sent word that Republic jobs will be kept open. Samuel Goldwyn said today that any true American would certainly look after the men who were drafted.

Y. Frank Freeman could not be reached, but knowing him I think it is safe to say he'll be among the first to do right by the Para lads and I'm sure the other studios, Columbia, RKO and Universal will follow suit.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Lupe Velez and Big Boy Williams are serious in spite of gossip to the contrary; the Conrad Nagel-Beryl Wallace twosome is true. They were at the Hollywood Tropics the other eve and out dancing last week; Gaison Kanin is again talking marriage to Katharine Hepburn i the East; that was not Maureen O'Hara with John Shelton, Maureen is still married; Pere Westmore was fit to be tied when he read in a newspaper that he is leading Kay Ellis to the altar. Miss Ellis, it appears is married and Pete has no matrimonial intentions of any kind.

The engagement ring Jeffrey Lynn gave Dana Dale is a star sapphire set with diamonds; Charles Grayson, the writer, and Claire Carlton, the actress, twoing at the La Conga; Robert Wilcox and Dorothy Watts, show girl, at the Emerald Lodge last eve; since coming to Hollywood Bob Crosby has lost 25 pounds by dieting. The moment the shots in his RKO picture are completed he will enter the hospital for a week to get rid of a sore throat.

Rochester is trying to persuade Paramount to star him in "The Life of Bert Williams," the famous Negro comic; Bob Leonard celebrated his birthday at the House of Murphy; June Clyde (Mrs. T. Freeland) looks so lovely since the birth of her baby that everybody at the Derby was asking her name. We don't see she doesn't do a picture.

HOLLYWOOD CHATTER: Alice Faye, who has dieted almost to the point of starvation to keep her slender figure, collapsed on the set of "Tin Pan Alley" this morning and had to be rushed to her valley home. The picture only has three days more to go and since Alice is in every shot it will have to be suspended until she's better. She caught a bad cold over the week-end and had no resistance to fight it. She tried to work but couldn't make the grade and is still a pretty sick girl.

BOBS WATSON and Wallace Beery in "Wyoming" which opens on Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow.

'WYOMING' OPENS AT PARAMOUNT, FENWAY

"Wyoming," Metro's Western adventure yarn, starring Wallace Beery with Leo Carrillo, Lee Bowman and Ann Rutherford, and the same studio's "Dr. Kildare Goes Home," the latest in the popular series, share screen honors on the Paramount and Fenway bill starting today.

Beery swashbuckles through raids, battles and thrills in his latest adventure thriller "Wyoming." He is cast as a two-gun bandit who, to protect a young girl and a child, becomes champion of law and order in a frontier wilderness, breaking up a gang of gunmen, aiding General Custer in his stirring battles against the savage Indian tribes.

He also provides hilarious comedy as the big, bashful boy friend of the town's lady blacksmith. Woven into the powder-filled, gun-blazing background is a delightful romance between Ann Rutherford and Lee Bowman.

For those who like their thrills and excitement in massive proportions, Beery's blazing adventtures offer a splendid combination of super-thrills and suspense.

The newest of the Kildare series, "Dr. Kildare Goes Home," takes Lew Ayers and Lionel Barrymore away from their hospital setting to a small country town where they encounter some of the most amazing problems of their professional careers.

The story deals with their struggles to control an epidemic by removing unsanitary water sources. They meet with great resistance from the natives until the leading citizen is stricken by the mysterious illness.

In a surprise climax medical science triumphs to provide a happy ending to an exciting story. Amid all the excitement Dr. Kildare and his fiancee continue with their very hectic courtship.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

Film Trophy Awards Today

Inspired by their latest smash hit, "Strike Up the Band," Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland have contributed two trophies which will be awarded to the best male musician and co-ed vocalist in a talent search contest. It will be conducted by the Boston University News, undergraduate newspaper at Boston University, this noon at the University's Charles Hayden Memorial auditorium, 685 Commonwealth ave.

The five male and five co-ed runners-up in the competition will receive theater tickets to Loew's State and Orpheum theaters where Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are appearing in their latest production, "Strike Up the Band."

'Strike Up the Band' Stays 2d Week on Loew's Screens

Mickey Rooney Film Smash Hit

Second only to the weekly tote of "Gone With the Wind" was the boxoffice record rung up last week for Metro's spectacular musical production, "Strike Up the Band," the Mickey Rooney-Judy Garland co-starrer at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

The double teaming of Mickey and Judy has proven a million-dollar buildup wherever "Strike Up the Band" has been shown throughout the country. As elsewhere, the picture is being held over a second week and the Loew's management expect to do a repeat business the coming week.

Metro's million-dollar boxoffice babies, aided and abetted by June Preisser and other clever youngsters (some of whom appeared with them in "Babes in Arms") organize a swing band in high school.

Their adventures range from staging a comical travesty on old-time plays, with 'corny' songs, to smart ballroom work, modern song hits such as "Nobody" and "Our Love Affair," and a big climax in a radio station. Here they win Paul Whiteman's prize with Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band," embellished by comical specialties.

Busby Berkeley, who filmed "Babes in Arms" and "Forty Little Mothers," directed, with a cast that includes Paul Whiteman and his famous orchestra, cute June Preisser, William Tracy, Larry Nunn, Margaret Early, Ann Shoemaker, Francis Pierlot, Virginia Brissac, Elliott Carpenter, George Lessey, Enid Bennett and a hundred high school age players.

JUDY GARLAND and Mickey Rooney in "Strike Up the Band," the screen musical which is held over for second week on Loew's screens.

'PANAMA HATTIE' SCORES HIT IN HUB OPENING AT SHUBERT

Ethel Merman Clinches Her Claim to Stardom

By PEGGY DOYLE

After last night Buddy DeSylva should swear by the rule of three.

Before curtain time last night he had two smash hits on Broadway—"DuBarry Was a Lady" and "Louisiana Purchase." When the curtain rang down on the Shubert stage close to the witching hour of midnight there wasn't the shadow of a doubt that in exactly 21 days he'll have a third sockeroo on the Main Stem . . . "Panama Hattie," which stars Ethel Merman in her first solo flight.

If your drama reporter fell for "DuBarry" (we only called it the musical of the year that had everything and a little bit more when it premiered here with Miss Merman and Bert Lahr last November), she could do a double somersault for "Panama Hattie" if she could do a double-somersault.

"Panama Hattie," girl—and show, will have you tossing your fedoras in the air. It will sell you completely on the merits of a Canal Zone cruise within the confines of the Tremont st. theater.

It will reaffirm your belief that Merman has no rival on the stage . . . unless it be the amazingly gifted little Joan Carroll ("that 8-year-old Schiaparelli" to the briefly bitter La Merman).

COLE PORTER SCORE

It will give you a Cole Porter score that ranks with his best including "Anything Goes," "Gay Divorcee" and "Leave It to Me."

It will give you dancing of Dance Director Robert Alton's Grade-A quality by dancers so beautiful and graceful you'll think you dreamed them up.

It will give you the best book authored by De Sylva and Herbert Fields in years of musical comedy going, expertly staged by Edgar MacGregor.

And it will give you Arthur Treacher, the highest-priced and most diverting Jeeves on stage or screen; Betty Hutton, the girl who discovered perpetual motion; James Dunn, who won't get back to Hollywood for a long, long time; burlesque's irresistibly comic Rags Ragland and his sailor-suited palsy-walsies, Club's 18's priceless Pat Harrington and Frank Hyers; the dance-team of Hightower, Gae and Hightower and, of course, the Misses Merman and Carroll.

STORY OF THE PIECE

These two meet not too happily in the shadow of Panama City's Santa-Ana Plaza with Dunn nervously doing the introductions.

Miss Merman, the Panama Hattie of the piece, is about to marry Dunn after a short and merry career in the Canal Zone.

The Carroll child is Dunn's motherless daughter, who has been carefully prepared by her aristocratic grandmother in Philadelphia and, at the latter's death, has been shipped to Panama City in care of Treacher, the family butler.

Miss Merman, who can look gaudier in pristine white than Bill Robinson decked out in his "Hot Mikado" gold lame dress-suit, rues her extravagance when the child finds her appearance cause for laughter. To win the youngster's approval, she permits her to snip off a bow here and another there and is surprised to discover it has been an improvement.

PERFECT BUILDING

The situation is a perfect build-up for the persuasive Porter number, "Let's Be Buddies." It's a honey, and Miss Merman and the little one from Hollywood do full justice to it. They are a most beguiling team, these two, and it is continuously surprising throughout the evening to find that Joan is as lovable and childlike as your own eight-year-older and not in the least precocious.

But the scene and the mood changes. Enter Woozy, Skat and Windy, otherwise Rags Ragland, Pat Harrington and Frank Hyers and the Navy's three looniest wags. They are also ribald but in a lower key than were such goings-on in "DuBarry" because there a child in the house, or rather on the stage.

These three represent a blending of comedy talents that should have Club 18's Jack White champing at the bit. It's the same sort of super-teamwork that makes the dancing of Nadine Gae, Louis and Robert Hightower something to write home about.

And you'd have to see to believe how ripping Treacher's suave and lofty butler and Miss Hutton's Mexican-jumping-bean of a Juliet are in the "They Ain't Done Right by Our Nell" number.

'Life With Father' Is a Sellout

The charming little Civic Repertory Theater, opposite Symphony Hall, which is currently playing host to Dorothy Gish, Louis Calhern and the sterling cast of "Life With Father," has not yet suffered the indignity of an empty seat since its brilliant opening last Monday w[illegible] Boston turned out to roar its welcome to Father and Mother Day, the most colorful characters to storm the American stage in years.

If the [illegible] affairs is likely to continue for some time.

Archer Lauds Judge Warner

Evidence of a counter movement to restore civic virtue to American public life was hailed before 150 members and guests of the Boston Reciprocity Club by Pres. Gleason L. Archer of Suffolk University.

"I welcome and applaud the action of Governor Saltonstall in appointing the Hon. Joseph E. Warner to the bench of the superior court of Massachusetts," Mr. Archer said.

Judge Warner, Mr. Archer predicted, will prove a worthy associate of other members of the judiciary who refuse to yield principle to the clamor of the mob.

This, he explained, is particularly necessary at a time when the nation has spent sixty billions of dollars "to attain a false prosperity sustained and nourished by borrowed money which our descendants must repay and which, if continued, will result in the destruction of the republic."

A BIG NEW $15,000.00 CONTEST COMING!

But First $1,250.00 FOR THOSE WHO HELP US WRITE THIS NEW CONTEST!

COMING . . . a grand new, brand new contest . . . with a magnificent First Prize that can make you rich . . . and a long string of other cash awards, each one of which will be well worth winning. BUT FIRST . . . and this offer is good immediately . . . we'll pay you to help us write this new contest. Yes, we're going to pay $1,250.00 or more to those persons who help us prepare the questions to be used in this new quiz contest which begins soon, and which will be known as the Game of Check!

THE RECORD-AMERICAN WILL PAY YOU $25.00 FOR EACH QUESTION ACCEPTED!

You probably noticed the Quizzical Camera Man column which appeared in the Record and American for several weeks past. In fact, you may be one of those persons whom he rewarded with a $10 bill while roaming the streets for correct answers to his quiz-queries. And perhaps you've been thinking that there were questions you would have liked to suggest.

If so, there's still time for you to suggest those questions—and what's more, to cash in on them! For the Record-American is going to pay out at least $1,250.00 to those persons who suggest acceptable questions to be included in a new, big-money quiz-contest we are now preparing.

If you have any good, peppy, interesting questions let's have 'em. For every question we accept, in accordance with the conditions set forth below, we'll pay you $25.00. We're going to use at least fifty of the questions sent in, which means that at least $1,250.00 will be paid.

But remember, we're not looking for encyclopedia or technical questions. We don't particularly seek brain-twisters. The questions needn't be out-and-out stickers—the essential thing is that your questions be UP-TO-DATE, PEPPY and INTERESTING! So take it easy . . . have a heart for your fellow-man . . . suggest the kind of question you yourself wouldn't mind being called upon to answer. But let's have 'em and let's have 'em fast!

HOW YOU CAN MAKE $25.00 OR MORE! Here Are the Conditions:

1. Any reader of the Boston Record or Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser may submit any number of questions as material for the Game of Check. $25.00 in cash will be paid for each question accepted.

2. Questions may be written in longhand or typed, but only one side of the paper should be used. Use separate sheets for each and every question. The name of the sender must appear on each such sheet. Address your questions to "Cash-for-Questions" Editor, P. O. Box 2097, Boston Record-American, Boston.

3. On the day that an accepted question appears on the contest page, the name of the person submitting same will be announced and a check for $25.00 will be mailed on that day to that person.

4. If two or more people submit the same winning question, $25.00 will be paid to the first person submitting that particular question. No questions will be returned.

5. This offer holds good until public notice to the contrary.

Vanishing Gems

By Anthony Rudd

"HE has lived a dangerous life, yet he is close to 70. Receiving jewels from the Orient, from Europe, and coming here across the United States border to obtain bargains which he later sells for triple price in Mexico City—well, Ortiz today is one of the most knife-scarred men—and one of the wealthiest—in all Mexico.

The Principal Character In "Vanishing Gems"

SENOR ORTIZ, a wealthy aged dealer in diamonds who is supposed to exercise a bit of magic while engaged in dealing in gems—and a bit of legerdemain, too.

"Yet he continues to work single-handed, to buy shrewdly, to transport secretly, and finally to sell in exactly the spot where stones of worth bring most. The ladrones have long since given up trying to waylay him. They cross themselves, make pairs of horns with the thumbs and little fingers of their hands. And even the bankers of Mexico City, I am told, no longer allow him to enter the little fenced spaces where the cashiers, vice-presidents, and presidents have their desks.

"Why? If you watch close for his magic, perhaps you will see. A man can fall victim to hypnotic spell, and when that happens, a banker makes a loan for one per cent instead of twelve, or a jewelry salesman drops the price until he los both his own commission and his company's profit. It has happened—to me!

"Now that I retire, and you will take over this southwestern branch, I want you to meet and see Ortiz—while I can offer an antidote to his spell. You see. He will tell us a story, and there will be a pretty good point to it, too. He tells only true stories, I think, for with experience stretching back and through a dozen revolutions any man known to deal in diamonds must have had a devil's own time of it.

"Yet you must learn to look further than the point of the story, for there is a barb back of the point, much like the barb on a hook used for shovel-nosed gar.

"So here now comes the Senor Santa Ana Oritz, of Chihuahua!"

The incoming branch manager, Eastern-trained, saw what appeared to be a wizened brown monkey under an enormous beaded sombrero which was doffed in a sweeping bow, at the introduction.

Senor Ortiz might have been 70, or a 100. Cross-hatching of lines in his parchment skin left no millimeter unmarked. A long nose now almost touched the pointed chin, for in between, where once, no doubt, there had been teeth, now was just a sunken crater with the red lips almost lost in the pursing and collapse.

Yet the jewel buyer's black eyes were lively and merry. His white eyebrows arched expressively.

The Senor Ortiz was bald; and his scalp, which fortunately one did not have to observe continually, as he immediately donned his sombrero again as he took a chair to face the two men, had blotches in a horrific shade of brown on yellow, like fungur growing on a forgotten caramel pudding.

The middle finger lacked from his right hand. The left had been chopped diagonally, probably by a machete, so that only the thumb and forefinger remained in a sort of awesome talon.

DIAMONDS FAVORED

"Ah, Senors!" he exclaimed. "Now is surely the day of rewards for those in our trade. I come to buy stones, not over three carats, not under one. I shall take twelve at a fair price, and another dozen my next trip, perhaps. In Mexico now, as you may be aware, there is a feeling that under the staggering burdens of internal debt, the world at war and after war, must face, that currencies will be depreciated to nothing. Perhaps gold will be abandoned entirely, and all that stuff your nation holds buried in Kentucky will be used just to fill teeth for the next million years. Quien sabe? But right now my countrymen trust diamonds more. There is no telling what will happen if the Germans get the De Beers Syndicate, and also succeed in their penetration of Brazil. But I do not talk of that. I just sell diamonds to those who wish to hoard. And I ask them a price. Valgame Dios, why not? Will you show me some stones?"

"That's our business, sir. Delighted. A clerk will bring a varied assortment of trays," said the old manager, and pressed an ivory button. "You can tell us some of your varied experiences as you look them over and make your selections."

He darted a swift sidewise warning glance to the younger man who would be his successor, as much as to say, "Now beware of Mexican magic!" But the easterner was a little bored. That thin wrinkled old buzzard ever could hypnotize him, was simply out of the question. These old westerners must have a soft side to them to believe any such guff.

Yet as the trays arrived, and with lens screwed into one eye-socket, the ancient Mexican made his examinations, setting aside a stone here and another there, he began to talk of old times. And even the skeptical easterner had to admit that there was a certain soothing influence in the mellifluous flow of the gentle yet somehow diabolical old voice.

"I was broke then, at the Valdez mines in Sonora," Ortiz was saying, speaking of a time during the salad days of Pancho Villa and that even greater scoundrel, Ramon Rosillo. "Since my reputation for the strictest honor was well known, however, I was chosen for a certain secret mission the reasons behind which are not very important no.

"The cashier of the Valdez group came to me by night, bent almost double by the weight of the triple-sewed canvas sack he carried by its leather handles.

"'Here are forty pounds of virgin bullion!'" he whispered, when I let him in my cabin. 'Take this at once to our manager at Alicante. It is said that Villa will raid here tomorrow!'

"Of course he had a smaller sack, one that had held durham tobacco, with gold in it as my fee. I accepted, and he left. In half an hour, leaving the big sack safely cached, I went to the cantina where at this hour Ramon Rosillo often came to gamble in the private back room. There was a price on his head, of course, yet none of my race would betray him, as he was a generous robber, one who gave to the poor peons when he stole from the wealthy.

ROSILLO'S MEN!

"'Ramon,' I said to him, 'I have the chance to earn two hundred dollars in gold—enough to outfit me in good clothes and buy me a horse and gun, all of which I need greatly.'

"'I know,' he grinned. 'You are to take away the gold before that swine of a Villa comes. My boys plan to meet you. In their hands the gold would be safer than in yours, perhaps.'

"It is no matter how I pleaded, telling him how long I had suffered extreme poverty. In the end he promised he would let me make the trip and earn my stake. He would get through word to his band somehow.

"So before dawn I started on horseback, and no one interfered. I met no one on the road until the sun was up. Then I overtook a holy man, an aged monk who rode upon a burro.

"'Buena sera, padre,' I saluted with respect.

"'Buena sera,' he mumbled through his white beard.

"We rode together a short way, perhaps another mile, when out of the bushes stepped many men, masked, and with guns leveled at my heart. I knew there was no use to resist, but I cursed. I knew one of the bandits by his tooled boots of brown leather. These were Rosillo's men!

"'Is Ramon with you?' I whispered to one masked robber.

"'What if he is?' the ladrone returned, not clever enough to lie.

"'He promised me——' 'I began. But then they gagged me, not interested in words when there was yellow gold for the taking.

"That was when my companion, the monk, chuckled in his beard—a ghastly thing for a holy man to do—and drew forth from his ragged garment an ebony cross, at the same time dismounting from the burro, and delivering one tremendous kick which struck the leader of the masked men squarely in the stomach!

"Of course I looked to see the old man shot down, but no. All of a sudden the ladrones started bowing, scraping, muttering apologies. They dragged away their writhing leader, and the monk and I were left alone with the gold.

"That was when the aged monk laughed aloud, and pulled off his wig and false whiskers. It was Ramon Rosillo himself.

"'This was the only way I could get word to my men,' he told me. 'But Ramon Rosillo does not break his word of honor!'

"And with that he offered me a drink from a silver flask of brandy, and we pledged friendship. He offered me work with him when my mission was fulfilled, and I agreed to take the matter under advisement.

"After shaking hands in farewell, I rode on and reached Alicante safely, a little after noon. I delivered the gold, and then bought my clothes and equipment."

The old fellow arose then, taking the lens from his eye and grinning amiably. He had set aside 12 of the one carat stones. When the price was set on these, he sat down again and wrote his check, which the old manager accepted with expressions of thanks. The stones were placed in their wrapping, and stowed away in the buyer's yellow leather wallet. Senor Ortiz shook hands effusively, thanking the two men for their courtesy, and started toward the door, doffing, then replacing his sombrero. But the old manager cleared his throat as Ortiz backed into the hall.

TRAPPED!

"Senor Ortiz!" he called after the retreating figure. "About those six three-carat stones . . . ahem," he suggested almost apologetically. "Shall I send you a bill for them?"

There was dead, cottony silence for about six or seven seconds, when there came a shaky, enraged answer, a cracked, senile voice far different from the oily, resonant tones of the narrator.

"Carramba! Yes! Send and I shall pay! Madre de dios!" Then he was gone.

"Did you catch the Mexican magic?" asked the old manager, a twinkle in his faded blue eyes. The newcomer could only shake his head. He was wondering about the vanished six three-carat stones.

"Well, when the bandit Rosillo kicked the leader of his own men in the stomach," said the retiring manager, "the edge of Ortiz's sombrero somehow swept six of the best, bigger stones into his right sleeve . . .

"Ortiz for many years had baffled his own countrymen, but I guessed him immediately. He is a millionaire—but a kleptomaniac, just the same. Now he knows that both of us have seen and heard him, you are not apt to have much trouble. But always look for the barb behind the hook, when he starts to talk of old times!"

THE END

By JACK CONWAY

WHILE I WENT out on a limb and picked the Reds to win the World Series from the Tigers, I am not going to do any cheering about it. In the matter of ability, the series proved there was not a great deal to choose between the two clubs.

The Reds won because Paul Derringer came back and captured two games after having received a terrific shellacking from the Tigers in the opening tussle. Derringer lived up to the claim of Jimmy Foxx that the Reds' ace is the greatest pitcher in baseball.

It is to be regretted that Buck Newsom could not have added to his already large share of World Series glory by winning the deciding game. Newsom had previously won two games, and in the final contest pitched his heart out in a gallant effort to turn back the Reds.

The World Series always has a "goat" and it was Dick Bartell's misfortune to play this role. He held the ball on a perfect relay from the outfield after Ripple had hit the right field screen while Frank McCormick was on second base. If Bartell had thrown the ball to the plate, he would have caught McCormick by yards in the opinion of Joe Cashman. Instead he held the ball while McCormick scored the tieing run without any opposition, Ripple later scored the winning tally on a sacrifice fly.

McKechnie Strategy Won Series

WHEN I NAMED the Reds to win the series, I had two thoughts in mind. First, Derringer, Walters and Thompson, and then Bill McKechnie.

Derringer and Walters pitched brilliantly, while McKechnie showed in the deciding game why he is rated so highly as a manager.

With Frank McCormick on second base in the seventh inning and the Tigers leading by a score of 1 to 0, most managers would have played for a tie and had Ripple sacrifice the runner along. McKechnie elected to gamble and instructed Ripple to hit. Ripple drove the ball off the right field screen.

McCormick held close to second until he was certain the ball would not be caught. He then made his successful dash for home.

Joe Cashman gives the possible explanation that Bartell thought Ripple's hit went into the stands for a home run and then bounced out. Joe says this may explain why Bartell held the ball and failed to throw to the plate in an effort to catch McCormick.

In the excitement of ball games as well as in other sports, star athletes occasionally have mental lapses which are costly.

It was McKechnie's willingness to gamble that paved the way for the tieing run by McCormick and the later score by Ripple.

Victory Will Help National League

THE TRIUMPH of the Reds will be a boost for National League baseball. I do not believe there is a fan or ball player (with the possible exception of the members of the Tiger team) who is not pleased to see the older league finally win in a World Series. Baseball's Fall classic was beginning to lose in public interest as a result of the regularity with which it was won by the American League representatives.

The Reds had also failed against the Yanks in the series last year, and another defeat this season would have injured baseball in Cincinnati.

The Tigers under Del Baker won an unexpected pennant. They secured sufficient glory in beating the Indians, Yanks and Red Sox and can look ahead to a possible World Series victory next year.

Del Baker has made good as a manager, and he will remain at the helm of the Detroit club.

* * *

SCHOOLBOY ROWE was a disappointment in the series, but it was due largely to his efforts and to those of Newsom that the Tigers got into the Fall classic. In a short series, a pitcher is under a tremendous burden and frequently is unable to show at his best.

If Derringer had got off badly in his second game and had lost, the outcome of the series would have been different. Derringer had the good fortune to click in his second try, and when put to the test in the final game he was at his best.

Hank Gowdy Wins Second Uniform

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 (AP)—General Manager Warren C. Giles told the Reds to keep their uniforms and jackets as souvenirs of their victory.

For Coach Hank Gowdy, it was the second time in 26 years he had thus acquired a monkey suit. He got his first by hitting a home run for Boston and victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1914 series.

REDS PILOT M'KECHNIE TO STUMP FOR WILLKIE

International News Photograph Service

DETROIT, Oct. 9 (INS)—Bill McKechnie, manager of the champion Cincinnati Reds, will postpone his vacation in his home town of Wilkinsburg, Pa., long enough to take the stump for Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican Presidential nominee, the Detroit Times said today.

McKechnie, the newspaper reports, said he was ready to go anywhere the Republican national committee thinks a word from the manager of the baseball world champions might get Willkie a vote.

McKechnie was quoted by the newspaper as saying:

"It may be tough going, but then a lot of people thought these Redlegs couldn't whip an American League, and I guess we did it, didn't we, boys?"

Cinci Hails New Champs

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 (INS)—Cincinnati went delirious last night.

No other word can describe the pandemonium.

Back in 1918, on Nov. 11th, Armistice Day, to be exact, there was a celebration but it was as nothing compared to last night's as the Queen City let its hair down in honor of its baseball team—the champions of the world some few hours now.

Cincinnati not only celebrated its first legitimate world's series crown—there was that unwholesome affair with the Chicago "Black" Sox—in modern baseball history, but wiped out with a vengeance the memories of last year's fiasco against the New York Yankees.

The cash registers of neighborhood taverns, wrong-side-of-the-tracks dumps, and exclusive night clubs rang out in a victory chant as the whole town toasted its baseball club

WAGNER UP FOR COLONELS

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 9 (AP)—Louisville's "Team of Destiny," seeking its second straight little World Series championship, ruled a slight favorite today to win the sixth game of the 1940 minor league baseball classic and pull up even with the Newark Bears of the International League.

The American Association club, which thrives on "breaks," got one from the weatherman yesterday when rain forced postponement of the third game at Newark and gave 23-year-old Charlie Wagner, its star right-hand pitcher, an added day's rest.

Wagner, who has been nursing a sore finger, seeks his 13th straight victory tonight. Opposing him will be Steve Peek, another right-hander and the Bears' leading percentage hurler. Peek will be gunning for his 16th victory in 27 games.

Both pitchers were shelled from the mound in the third and final game of the best-of-seven series played at Louisville, but neither gained credit for the victory or was charged with the loss. The Colonels won the tussle 5-4 with an ninth inning uprising.

Wagner, like Cecil (Tex) Hughson who set the Bears down 6 to 2 in the fifth game Monday, is a chattel of the Boston Red Sox. Peek will go South with the New York Yankees, parent club of the Bears, next spring.

Confident of victory for his "Team of Destiny" Manager Bill Burwell selected big Jim Weaver, former major leaguer and an ex-Bear, for mound duty.

BLAIK SHIFTS LINEUP

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 9 (INS)—Announcement was expected today by Coach Earl Blaik that he has changed the lineup of his Dartmouth Indians. Six new faces were in the varsity lineup at practice.

Durocher to Manage Dodgers Again in '41

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Leo Durocher will manage the Brooklyn Dodgers again next year.

Larry MacPhail, president of the club, announced today that the fiery little infielder signed his 1941 contract during the World Series and that it had been approved by the club's board of directors. Salary terms were not disclosed.

The announcement ended the rumors that Leo would not be back next season since MacPhail had indicated he preferred a playing manager and Durocher played in only 62 games this year.

Last year, his first at the helm of the Dodgers, Leo guided the club into third place and this year finished second.

Slapnicka Denies Charges of Vitt

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9 (AP)—C. C. Slapnicka, vice-president of the Cleveland Baseball Club, took issue today with Manager Oscar Vitt's complaint blaming non-support for his troubles.

"In answer to the statement Vitt made in regard to not receiving the support of the front office," Slapnicka said, "I wish to say that it was not a true statement of fact."

Vitt had opened up at his Oakland, Cal, home with the complaint "a different situation would have prevailed had I been given the backing any manager is entitled to expect."

VITT SOUGHT APOLOGY

Vitt also cited an incident in which he said a player he had suspended returned with the explanation he had "fixed it up" with the front office.

Slapnicka replied: "Vitt's reference to a player whom he suspended, likewise is only partially correct.

"It was at Manager Vitt's own suggestion and request that I talked to the player. The understanding was that if the player apologized to him, Vitt would consider the incident closed.

"I requested the player to call at the stadium the next day before reporting to the clubhouse. Without any solicitation on my part, the player said he realized he was wrong and agreed to make amends by apologizing to Vitt. He then went to the clubhouse and apologized.

"Since that was all Vitt requested, I can not construe this as a failure of the front office to support the manager."

VERDICT IN THREE WEEKS

The player obviously was Outfielder Jef Heath, although his name was not mentioned. Vitt reprimanded Heath late in the season for slow play on a ball.

Vitt's future status will be determined by the club's directors who will meet in about three weeks.

GARDELLA DROPPED TO SECOND ELEVEN

Coach Dick Harlow of Harvard is working with all his genius this week to rig up a defense to do something about stopping the Harmon Hurricane which has been sweeping the gridirons this fall. The Crimson defense will be greatly strengthened by the return of Joe Koufman to end, where he played last year.

Can Harmon be stopped? In the dressing room after the Amherst game, Harlow stated that as far as he could make out "It was impossible." It is considered impossible because no team over a two-year period has been able to hold the Hoosier Hammer to less than 100 yards gained from the line of scrimmage. Harvard scouts say that Harmon is greater than Red Grange.

CAN'T BE BEAT ON PAPER

One of the Harvard players summed up the team spirit pretty well last night when he said, "Gosh we can't expert to beat Michigan on comparative records, but don't forget that we may surprise."

Rain and mud have failed to halt the intensive drills being staged in the closed field along the Charles. Harlow is spending a great deal of time in giving his team an offense which may be able to make the Crimson startle the football world.

Fran Lee of the Cantabs says, "Don't forget that this is a season of upsets."

For the first time in many a year the Harvard captain will be ousted from his starting berth. Joe Gardella will be on the sidelines when the Michigan game begins. As a result of McNicol's injury, Harlow was forced to shift Gardella to tailback where he will play second fiddle to Charley Spreyer. Gardella's place at bucking back will probably be divided between Bill Brown and soph Mort Waldstein of Brookline.

Waldstein is the best punter at Harvard, and the only real line smasher on the team. Harlow labels him as potentially the best back at Cambridge.

The heavy contact work is over and the rest of the week will be devoted to defense against Michigan attack.

Shakeup Hits Purple Squad

WORCESTER, Oct. 9 (AP)—Holy Cross' football team started on the road back from its 25-0 loss to Lousiana State by staging a 90 minute scrimmage in preparation for Saturday's game with Carnegie Tech here.

Coach Joe Sheeketski shook up the varsity line so drastically that only the sophomore ends, Murphy and Roberts, remained at their regular posts. Capt. Jack Kellar moved from right to left guard. Tom Lynch, a senior, replaced Paul Dorrington at center; sophomore Tom Alberghini was promoted from the third team to right guard; and big John Fitzgerald, a reservist last year, was installed at right tackle.

The regular backfield of Saba, Sullivan, Osmanski and Grigas carried the ball behind this new line during the major part of the long scrimmage, which was staged in rain and mud.

LEAHY FEARS TEMPLE

Frank Leahy was a happy coach a week ago today. His Boston College team had just returned from New Orleans where it had gathered all kinds of national headlines by splashing the vaunted Green Wave of Tulane University.

Today the same personable young man can't squeeze a smile out of a handsome face. And the turnabout was brought on when Leahy like the postman on his day off, went to a football game last Friday night. The game was an arc light affair in Philadelphia between the grid forces of Temple University and Georgetown University. What Leahy saw on that arc lighted field tore the smile from his countenance and replaced it with a deep coat of gloom.

LEAHY REALLY WORRYING

To bring you up to date, Mentor Leahy's team meets Temple at Fenway Park Saturday afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. Georgetown, which won Friday night's game 14-0 comes to Boston to meet the Leahy Eagles on November 16.

Coach Leahy calls both Temple and Georgetown "exceptionally powerful elevens."

It might be mentioned here that the Leahy frowns aren't the synthetic type manufactured to spur the Boston College squad to great heights. He really is concerned about this one.

"I was amazed by the Temple I saw in action last week," said Leahy between autographs yesterday. "It's a far different Temple this year. Last fall the Owls lacked spirit. This year they've got spirit in abundance. They snap through their plays.

TESTED GEORGETOWN

"They're big also. Ira Tomasic and Juralewicz, the fullbacks, Temple has twin threats who may break up a ball game when you least expect it. The Temple line gave the big burly Georgetown frontier a busy time. Yes, Temple will be rugged opposition," mused Leahy.

"It is the most crucial contest on our schedule thus far," added the Eagle mentor in closing. The latter statement sums up the coming of Temple and its significance to the Boston College Eagles. That's why Leahy is gloomy and Boston College gridmen are working overtime these days at Alumni Field.

Maranville Due to Pilot Springfield

Rabbit Maranville is expected to sign a contract to manage the Springfield Nationals next year, when he meets with owner Joe Cambria tomorrow in Springfield.

Maranville played his first professional baseball in Springfield, and there laid the basis for the fame he later achieved in the big leagues.

Maranville

Maranville has managed Albany and Almira in the Eastern League and Montreal in the International League since he was given his outright release by the Bees four years ago.

In inviting you to look over the new things for Fall, we can't do better than to quote from a customer's letter—

"The absence of the 'desire to sell' on the part of your house, and the substitution of the 'desire to please' is a strong attraction to men who detest the efforts of inexperienced salesmen to saddle something on a purchaser at the expense of avoiding a reprimand for missing a sale."

Marion P. worked her way up on the rail to slip through entering the stretch and drew out handily the final 16th. Ohio's Choice, outrun early, saved ground on the rail and came with a rush in the drive to withstand Bende at the close. The latter, always close up, fought for command entering the stretch but was not good enough. Delicto, away slowly, closed considerable ground in the stretch run. Bobby Pin was never a serious factor. Ima Dell K. showed good early speed, then stopped fast. Beauty time and Countess Abbott set the early pace, with Beauty Time bolting and carrying out Countess Abbott leaving the back stretch. The others were never close.

Don Elser, St. Benedict's Coach, Admits 47 Errors in One Game

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 9 (AP)—This could be taken either as a big boost for the Michigan State football team or a knock against Ohio State. Mal Elward, Purdue coach, warned his team that if they expect to beat the Spartans they will have to "play 60 minutes of the same kind of football we played in the last half against Ohio State."

It was in the last half that Purdue pushed the bigger Buckeyes around and nearly won the game.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — North Carolina fears Texas Christian's passing attack and has the figures to show why. The Tar Heels point out that such famous flingers as Davey O'Brien and Sammy Baugh compiled college records of .482 and .458 for completing passes while so far T. C. U.'s aces, Kyle Gillespie and Jack Odle, have averages of .538 and .495. Last season the Horned Frogs completed 49 per cent of their passes and they've made it an even .500 in two games this season.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 9—Perhaps it was a good idea to schedule the Brown-Colgate game for this week instead of playing it at the end of the season as in former years, for there's no chance for the result to blast someone's championship hopes at the last minute. Colgate has deprived Brown of perfect records in the final game of the season three times in the past. In 1916 the Raiders beat Fritz Pollard's Bruin team after seven straight triumphs; 10 year's later Brown's "Iron Men" could get no better than a tie and in 1932 Colgate's unbeaten-untied-unscored on team handed Brown its first defeat of the season.

HELENA, Mont.—"Peace! It's wonderful!" might be the password on the compuses of Montana University and Montana State College. Their student representatives met in neutral Helena and decided that there would be no more raiding of each other's grounds prior to their annual football encounter.

KANSAS CITY—Don Elser of St. Benedict's College, Atchison, Kan., is a frank football coach. The former Notre Dame fullback admitted making 47 mistakes in one game. They all came in the second half, too, he told the "College of Complaint," an organization of fans and coaches. St. Benedict's lost, of of course, 0-33, to Wichita U.

PHILADELPHIA—It seems Pennsylvania must be counting on making plenty of mid-field gains against Yale Saturday. Coach George Munger has been giving his squad special tutoring on how to overcome the seven-man goal line defense that has made "Hold 'em Yale" more than just a word.

• • •

EUGENE, Ore.—Oregon's Webfoots haven't done any scoring by the field goal route so far this season but their rivals might do well to remember it has been an Oregon specialty in the two seasons Tex Oliver has been coach. In 1938 Jimmy Nicholson booted three three-pointers and last season Tex developed Jay Graybeal into a booter and he also kicked three.

Distance Test For Little Beans

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 9—That good two-year colt, Littlte Beans, has come back home to Rockingham Park where he will make his first important attempt to race over a long distance during the next few weeks.

The swift little youngster that won the Maplewood Stakes here last summer and defeated Level Best in the Eastern Shore Handicap arrived at Rockingham Park yesterday from Maryland. He was defeated last Saturday by Level Best in the Richard Johnson dash at Laurel but on his record Little Beans is still one of the best two-year-olds of the season.

The bargain colt, picked up for $500 at Saratoga last year by Rocky Palladino of Boston, suffered only one other previous setback and that was in the Old Colony Stakes at Narragansett. He finished a strong third that day to Level Best and King Cole, which is nothing to be ashamed of, and that record puts him high in the juvenile ranks with Level Best, Our Boots and Blue Pair.

As the situation now stands, Little Beans is a prospect for next spring's Kentucky Derby. But the Derby is a mile and a quarter and Palladino's colt hasn't yet raced more than six furlongs.

So this visit to the New Hampshire track for his first tilt is more than a mile is a very important landmark in Little Beans' turf career.

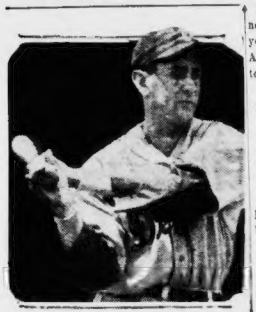
GEHRINGER QUITS; 'PARADE GOING BY,' HE TELLS FRIEND

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 (INS)—As the Tigers rolled over on their backs to become dead cats, a great ball player probably was playing his last scene.

Charley Gehringer is quitting.



CHARLIE GEHRINGER
Near End of Line

He doesn't think he'll be back next year because the spring of youth is no longer in his legs. After the game Gehringer confided to a friend:

"I guess I'm turning in my uniform for the last time. The parade is going by me. Say, I told Jimmy Wilson that when a man doesn't want to take batting practice I guess he's through. That's how I felt in this series."

Gehringer is 37, a bachelor. He had trouble with his back all during the season.

"It troubled me a lot last winter when I was shoveling snow," he said, "and I wondered then if I could go on. I've had so many heat treatments I feel like a baked apple. It's been tough staying in there this season."

Detroit will not be able to make a satisfactory replacement for Gehringer, who has been with the Tigers for 16 years. Under the rule passed last winter, the championship club can make no deals within the American League, and so some newcomer must succeed Gehringer.

Gehringer's record in this last series was the final convincer. He hit into three double plays, left 16 runners on base and made only 6 hits in 28 times at bat for a .214 average, lowest of all Detroit regulars except Sullivan and Tebbetts. He batted in only one run.

Schoolboy Rowe and Rudy York were undoubedly goats of the series. York hit only .231 and aside from his homer in third game, was not a factor. He failed three times yesterday with runners on base.

Dick Bartell grew a few goat's whiskers himself when he muffed the chance to throw out McCormick at the plate and kill the tying run. Bartell was not altogether to blame, for the din provoked by Ripple's hit deafened him to the frantic cries of Pinky Higgins and Billy Sullivan.

Why McCormick didn't score before the ball was returned to the infield was another mystery. Bartell certainly had no reason to believe in the possibility of a play at the plate. Ripple's hit rebounded from the right-field screen and had to be retrieved by Campbell, Bartell taking the relay on the diamond inside second base.

There were many heroes. Bucky Walters won twice and turned in a shutout, but was eclipsed by Derringer's last two efforts. Ripple's homer won the second game, his two catches in fifth game were highlights of series fielding, his lucky double yesterday drove in tying run and he scored the winning run.

Werber was the only player on either team to make 10 hits. He was most often on base. Hank Greenberg was victim of careful Cincinnati pitching. Had his liner in eighth inning yesterday been two feet higher, the Tigers would have had the tying run on third, winning run on first with nobody out.

• • •

Jimmy Wilson's stolen base was the most surprising incident of the series. Wilson caught last two games suffering from two Charley-horses. He hit two singles off Newsom first two times up and hobbled to first base. He made his steal good by taking a big lead on Newsom. Wilson is 41 and says he has retired again but may come back next year if Reds need him.

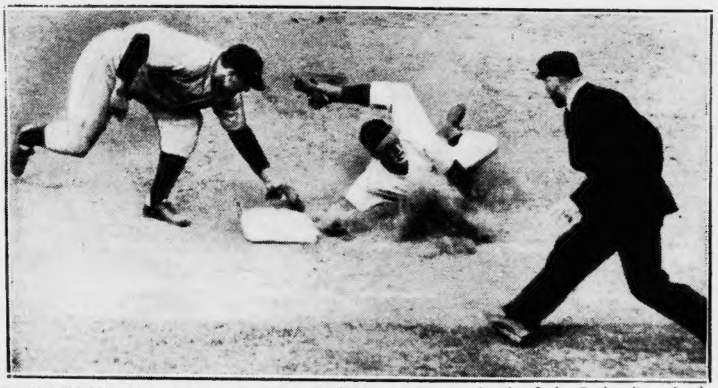
REDS' WORLD SERIES WIN COMPLETES SWEEP FOR N. L.



SAFE RETURN—Linus Frey, running for Pinch-hitter Ernie Lombardi of the Reds, dives back to first safely when Tiger Catcher Billy Sullivan tries to cut him off with a quick throw to First Baseman Rudy York. Play came in seventh inning of final series game after Reds had scored two runs, which were enough to give them 2-to-1 edge, series win and world championship.

N. L. Regains Prestige By Reds' Win of Series

By JOE CASHMAN

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON, Oct. 9—Victorious in the World Series, the mid-summer All-Star game and the spring All-Star game, thanks in each instance to the Cincinnati Reds' remarkable twirling tandem of Paul "Duke" Derringer and Bill "Bucky" Walters, the National League today had firmly established itself as worthy of major rating.

It was tough on the courageous Detroit Tigers that they should be the victims of the senior circuit's first championship triumph since 1934. The old men from the Motor Metropolis performed a miracle in winning the A. L. flag after being picked to finish no higher than fourth. They waged the good fight in the series, extending it to the limit and then being beaten by the narrow margin of one run.

STOP SILLY TALK

But the Reds' triumph was a great thing for baseball. It will increase interest in the game. It will also stop the silly talk that the A. L. is greatly superior to the N. L.

They may well feel proud of themselves and their performances, each and every one of the MacKechniemen.

As for the Bengals, they need have no regrets. From April 16 right through October 8 they exceeded the expectations of their fondest admirers.

Now that the shooting is over, what about these two pennant winners next year, if indeed, there is any baseball next year?

Will either or both repeat in their respective leagues?

The Reds, with two straight N. L. flags behind them, must rate favorite to keep on winning until Messrs. Derringer and Walters show signs of slipping. That pair would make the Phillies or Athletics pennant favorites.

It wasn't the strongest Reds' club that "Duke" and "Bucky" led to the championship. Ernie Lombardi the Ohioans' leading hitter and regular catcher, was on the bench while the 41-year-old Jimmy Wilson was doing the receiving The light-hitting Eddie Joost was spelling the broken-toed Lonnie Frey, a most dangerous sticker, at second base.

Yet "Duke" and "Bucky" steered this makeshift lineup to victory over an American League entry that was at its best physically.

Yes, those two pitching prides make the Reds odds-on favorites to repeat next season.

As for the Tigers, the cards would seem to be stacked against them coming through again, particularly since the American League has a rule which prohibits a championship club swapping players with any rival in the circuit.

How the Tigers ever managed to win this year with their second-base combination of Charlie Gehringer and Dick Bartell, each of whom has slowed down to a walk, will always remain a mystery.

It's inconceivable that it could happen again. In fact, it's generally taken for granted that Gehringer will retire as an active regular before the start of another race.

How can the Tigers replace him? Who can they get to bolster the shortstop spot?

The answer is nobody but rookies and no club can be figured to capture a flag with novices in the two most important key positions on the field.

The Tigers will be troublesome, make no mistake about that.

They'll have punch to spare with Greenberg, York, McCosky and Higgins swinging for them. They'll have better than average A. L. pitching with the heroic Newsom as top man of a staff, which will include two of the most promising youngsters in the business in the persons of Hal "Lefty" Newhouser and Johnny Gorsica and, possibly, another boy wonder in the person of Floyd Giebell.

But with the improvement to be expected from the Yanks, Indians and Red Sox, the odds are that one or more of these teams should finish ahead of the Detroiters.

MUCH TO TALK ABOUT

While waiting for the start of another campaign which will bear out or disprove these predictions, fandom will have plenty to discuss about the '40 world's series in general and the last two games in particular.

About the sensational shutout pitching of "Bucky" Walters when the Reds had their backs squarely against the wall in the sixth game on Monday.

About the superlative slinging of Paul Derringer and the equally brilliant box work of Bo-Bo Newsom, coming back with a one-day rest, as the Reds won the clincher 2 to 1.

About, above all, the play by Dick Bartell which enabled the Reds to put over the tying run in the seventh and extend their rally to include the winning run in the same frame; a play that in the eyes of the spectators and press boys put Rowdy Richard second to none as a world's series goat but which, strangely enough, was hardly mentioned by the other Tigers in the clubhouse after the game.

The Tigers said a better team had beaten them. Newsom said he had been out-pitched.

No alibis, no second-gueases by those courageous Bengals.

But if ever a team had cause to rail against fate it was these Tigers, even though he one run they scored against Derringer was unearned.

For that tainted tally, coming in the third inning, when Bill Werber made an excusable semi-wild throw with two out and Frank McCormick dozed slightly to let Billy Sullivan score, night have carried the Detroiters to victory but for an inexplicable error of omission by Bartell in the seventh.

Trailing 1 to 0 entering the lucky frame, the Reds got the tying run to second when Frank McCormick opened with a double to the scoreboard in left-center.

Jimmy Ripple followed with what turned out to be a double of" the right field screen. But until this ball became a safe hit, it appeared as though Bruce Campbell might catch it.

So McCormick stuck close to second to be ready to tag up, if necessary, and he wasn't more than a yard beyond third when Campbell's relay was in Bartell's hands at second base, now occupied by Ripple.

McCormick turned around as though he intended to go back to third and then, to everybody's amazement, he started towards the plate.

NOT ALL BARTELL'S FAULT

And to everybody's greater amazement, he made it because Bartell didn't throw in an attempt to head him off.

First, Dick kept his back turned to the infield for some undetermined reason. Then when he turned around, he walked in to hand the ball to Newsom, even though right before his eyes there was McCormick still yards from the plate.

Dick wasn't exclusively at fault. Either Rudy York or Charlie Gehringer might have shouted for him to throw the ball, but neither did.

Mike Higgins, at third did. So did Catcher Billy Sullivan. And the distracted Manager Del Baker all but ran out and took the ball from his hands.

But these three were too far away from the Tiger shortstop to hear, with the customers yelling madly over the sight of their beloved Reds tying the score.

M'KECHNIE TURNS GAMBLER

McKechnie, strictest of percentage players, having suddenly turned gambler to confound the opposition when he ordered Ripple to hit, now reverted to form and had Jimmy Wilson sacrifice the winning run to third. Then he put up Lombardi to hit for Joost and, of course, Ernie was purposely passed.

Next he signed Billy Meyers to try to squeeze the run over. The batter foul bunted the first pitch. Then Billy Sullivan went masterminding. He called for not one pitch-out but three in a row, putting Newsom right on the spot.

DERRINGER DESERVED WIN

Derringer deserved to win. He allowed only one Tiger to see third base after the third inning. Four of the seven hits off him were of the scratch variety. With Gehringer singling to reach first with the tying run with none out in the eighth, Paul got Greenberg, York and Campbell.

You can't beat that pitching.

Newsom pitched better than well enough to win against ordinary pitching opposition. He might have won against extraordinary pitching opposition but for that blunder by Bartell, who is excused by some on the grounds that he had every reason to think that McCormick was already over the plate before he received the ball from Campbell.

But a player can't afford to think when the difference between $6500 and $4500 is at stake.

All in all, the series came out about as it figured in cold dope.

This writer picked the Reds to win in six games. The winners had to go seven games because Derringer failed in the opener.

In that opener, you wouldn't have given a plugged nickel for the Reds' chances, but Walters restored their confidence in the second game and they returned to normalcy to stay.

Form called for Derringer and Walters to win two games each and they did.

Newsom and Rowe figured to be the Tigers' winners. Instead Newsom and Bridges filled the roles. And it was Ol' Bo-Bo, truly valiant, who made it so close.

ROOM AND BOARD By Eugene Ahern

Captain L. E. Lutz Lauds Hearst Rifle Tourney

Captain Louis E. Lutz, secretary of the New England Police Revolver League, largest police shooting organization in the country, today became a member of the competitions committee for the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmenship Competition which is being held in this section under the sponsorship of the American-Record.

Capt. Lutz, drillmaster of the Boston police shooting department for more than 12 years and present member of the competitions committee of the United Services of New England, is only one of the many persons interested in rifle shooting who expresses himself as tremendously impressed with the importance of the coming Hearst shoot.

"I think Mr. Hearst is doing a wonderful thing in conducting this marksmanship competition," Capt. Lutz said in accepting a committee appointment.

AIDS NATIONAL DEFENSE

"It will be a fine thing for us to have an organization with a responsible controlling board and particularly to have such an agency to interest novices and youngsters in the fine art of shooting.

"The Hearst shoot comes at a most opportune time," Lutz continued. "Because it will play a major role in our scheme of national defense.

"As a part our national defense program, we are anxious to teach proper shooting not only to police departments, but also to firemen, citizen groups and such other groups as protective agencies, bank guards, bank tellers, paymasters and all employes whose duties require them to be armed.

.22 CALIBRE BEST

"Believing that all persons should know how to shoot properly, many of us have for a long time been looking for just such a means of educational promotion as offered by this Hearst shoot.

"We have always felt that cartridges cost far less than pensions.

"I am also happy to know that rifles will be confined to .22 calibre for the gallery competition. It is my opinion that the .22 is the ideal calibre with which to train a man how to shoot whether with rifle or revolver.

CAUTION MOST IMPORTANT

"The .22 is ideal in more than one way. Because if a man learns to handle a .22 he can easily adapt himself to shoot any calibre. The principle of shooting is the same no matter what type of gun in hand. Most important is to learn precautionary measures, how to hold the piece properly, how to train the sight, proper alignment and the method of squeezing the trigger. The shooter should know, too, how the gun is put together and its component paris.

"I know New England marksmen will be enthusiastic over the opportunity to enter this grand competition and I, in turn, will urge everyone interested in the sport to enter as soon as possible."

Bugs Eye View of Series

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Buck Newsom tried to stretch a spider's web across a wash tub yesterday and just missed doing it. He went down in a game that was closer than a knife and fork.

It was a story book finish with Newsom just missing out by the one run that is a lot when the other side has it. The grab puts the National League back into double A company again and now the boys can hold their heads up walking past the fire-house.

Although the score doesn't indicate it, I figure the last game was a cinch for Cincinnati. Any time the Tigers got tough Derringer bore down and cooled them off like the north side of an Eskimo igloo. The series was strictly a tosser's vendetta from start to exit and was remarkable for the fact that not one pinch-hitter registered in the clutch.

Derringer was just a trifle better than Newsom, for one single scored against him was a batted ball that nicked a runner. Naturally the player who stands out like diamond earrings on a giraffe is the player whose wallop busted up the works. This time it was Ripple with a looper against the right field fence for a double.

It scored the other McCormick and put Ripple in a better spot than a buzzard on a sick cow. He moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Myers' fly to McCosky that required too much postage to send back.

The two teams are as evenly matched as double windshield wipers. Start those seven games all over again and it can go either way like a fellow with an excursion ticket.

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

NO. 3

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games, to be played each Saturday. Anyone may enter the contest, excepting employes of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are listed on the chart here which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space nearest the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie game, place the letter (T) in the spaces nearest the names of the tieing teams.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except those for which you predicted a tie score. Write winners' and losers' average score in space provided in coupon. Do not write individual scores in spaces, or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE solution may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American not later than Midnight Friday, the day before the games.

You need not buy a copy of the Record or American to enter this contest. Tracings of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library, or in the Record-American office. Such entries will be acceptable, and given equal consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entries contain all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect selections $100.00 will be awarded the tieing contestant whose average score tabulations most nearly match the actual average scores of the games. If no perfect list of selections is entered, $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct, and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the tieing contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the award. A prize of $25.00 will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct solutions and should two or more contestants tie for this prize tieing contestants submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $1.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the next largest number of correct selections and whose average scores most nearly match the actual average scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Saturday following the games. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

Mail all entries to the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1987, Boston, Mass. RAIN FAIR SHOWERS CLOUDY

Reception

The drizzling rain failed to halt these New Yorkers from turning out to hear Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, as he took his fight for election to Gotham . . . and he's shown (circle) speaking in Duffy Square while the crowd hides under umbrellas.

Tracers

G-men give night firing exhibition with tommy-guns, using tracer bullets at their Quantico, Va., range, before National Police Academy graduates. It's good machine-gun practice for the Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.
